

TWO HELD IN FILM MURDER

WETS AND DRYSGIRD FOR FRAY IN OHIO STATE

Liquor Question Big Election Issue.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

ARTICLE III.

The approaching congressional election is to be enlivened by a widespread effort to legalize a restoration of some of the old time kick to beer and wine.

In every state where it is possible to obtain a referendum the opponents of national prohibition purpose to test popular sentiment on the proposition of modifying the Volstead law so as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and wine of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content.

Ohio is to be the scene of one of these tests, with the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and the Anti-Saloon league locking horns not only in the referendum fight, but in the election of senator, congressman, and state officials and the nominating primaries.

Mild Wets Open Fight.

Declaring against legislation which defines a beverage as intoxicating when it is actually nonintoxicating, the Association Against Prohibition, which opposes the restoration of the saloon, has launched its Ohio campaign for 225,000 signatures to a petition for "a state-wide referendum on prohibition as at present enforced."

The referendum is to take the form of a proposal to amend the state law by substituting 2.75 per cent for one-half of 1 per cent in the definition of intoxicating liquor. The amendment is to be moved under the initiative clause of the Ohio constitution, so that if approved by the voters in November it would become effective at once.

Would Be Tip to Congressmen.

Adoption of this amendment would not give Ohio 2.75 beer and wine so long as the federal act prescribes one-half of 1 per cent, but the Ohio senators and congressmen would be urged to accept it as instructions to vote for a similar modification of the Volstead law.

The same procedure is to be adopted in the other, the association being convinced that a widespread reaction against the rigors of national prohibition has set in and will manifest itself in the congress to be elected next fall. In a circular issued from its Cleveland headquarters the association, which is headed by many men and women of national reputation, charges that conditions in the soft drink "dives" are as "degrading as those which attended the old unregulated saloon," with a "sinister connection between this new type of saloon and prohibition enforcement officers."

Dry Chief Is Confident.

James A. White, Ohio superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, thinks it possible that the association will obtain the necessary signatures to a petition for the 2.75 per cent amendment, but he is confident that the move will be overwhelmed at the polls. In recent years Ohio has voted three times in succession but the fourth time ratified the prohibition enforcement law, and with the women voting in this election, the drys are confident of increased strength.

The association is seeking to "influence the nominations and elections so that fanatical prohibitionists or prohibition candidates will be less likely" to win, while the league intends to pledge candidates to uphold the Volstead act despite any referendum instructions.

Pomerene Considered "Damp."

Senator Pomerene, who voted for medicinal beer and is generally classed as a wet, will be fought by the Anti-Saloon league, which will support Representative Fess, a hard shelled dry. If he becomes a candidate for senator, the politicians herabouts are pretty generally of the opinion that Fess will be the Republican candidate, though many admit that Representative Burton would be more likely to defeat Pomerene, a Democrat, of the conservative Republican support he has attracted. Burton is endorsed, while Longworth is disapproved by the Anti-Saloon league.

Supt. White of the league, who is a power in Ohio politics, may become a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor on a platform of a stricter enforcement of the prohibition law, though the league concedes that Gov. Davis has done better than was expected on this score.

CHAPTER XXII.

Power, whether for good or evil, always commands a following. It is not yielded lightly, and the more wicked it is the more unscrupulous will be the methods to retain it. Also the longer such power has been exercised by a single man or group of men the more likely will be the development of abuses of it.

In Adamant and Somber City, where lay the chief activities of the Lannard Steel Mills, power had long been centered in the hands of James Stabb, manager. As time went on and resistance had been beaten down, the methods of mill management had grown less and less responsive to the dictates of common decency and progress.

But as long as he was successful he had his supporters, open or secret—men who did not care to inquire too closely into his methods so long as dividends were maintained—others who found it profitable to participate in the various side issues promoted by him.

There was the Building and Loan Association, devised by Stabb but headed by a local banker named Henry Hornblend, whereby workmen were induced to invest in a house on the installment plan, with the result that they could not strike or quit work without losing the meager savings of years wiped out. Few ever reached the final payment, and the property reverted to the Association. This scheme yielded big profits, which were shared by Mr. Stabb and his associates.

Another of Stabb's creations was a chain of local stores from which the workmen were obliged to purchase most of their food and clothing. Healthful competition being thus eliminated, prices were arbitrarily fixed by men who were decidedly not in business for their health.

Insiders commonly believed that certain town officials were beneficiaries in the profits of these ventures. Even the local congressman, it was whispered, had more than an altruistic interest in their welfare.

This congressman was of a type which is happily disappearing. He was a quick and ready speaker, a hale fellow well met, a waver of the flag, and as devious as a fox. His friends, for favors rendered, called him "Honest John" Harry.

He looked into the Honorable Harry's safe deposit box would have revealed many secrets unsuspected by his constituents.

HARDING CONFERENCE ON UNEMPLOYMENT STARTS PUBLIC WORKS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Among the outstanding results of the President's conference on unemployment is the vast amount of public works, chiefly state and municipal, which have been started during the winter to provide employment.

It is found that $450,000,000 is now available in the United States for local improvements. In response to letters sent out by Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the emergency committee, 80 per cent of the communities affected have notified the conference that work is already in progress or that it will be started before spring in order to provide local employment.

Medical Examiner Cassasa said death was accidental. It occurred in the home of the actress at 120 West 11th street, which she rented from Mrs. Dudley Field Malone, who is abroad. The girl was taken to St. Vincent's Friday night after she had been unconscious.

On Saturday morning Max Eastman, writer, submitted to blood transfusion in an effort to save her.

Sure Death Was Accidental.

Eastman gave out the following statement: "Miss Deshon was a dear friend. I am sure her death was accidental. I do not know the slightest reason why she should commit suicide."

"I was about to start for Europe to attend the Genoa conference and had expected to sail next week. I am perfectly sure, as are her friends, that her death was accidental."

Friends of the couple insist the friendship between Eastman and Miss Deshon was broken recently. Persons living at 1201 West 11th street tell of a recent scene when Eastman called. It was also said the first breach took place after the screen actress met Charlie Chaplin.

Make Up, Then Part Again.

At that time Eastman, who had been divorced from Ida Raugh, was reported to be engaged to Miss Deshon. The appearance of Chaplin and his manifest admiration for the actress created a coldness which, it is hinted, grew more frigid when Miss Deshon went to Hollywood to appear in pictures for the Famous Players.

But on Miss Deshon's return to New York with Chaplin in attendance Miss Deshon's friendship with Eastman was renewed. Eastman gave a party for Chaplin, which started at the Greenwich Village inn and became a progressive visit to various homes and studios.

Recently, friends said, the coldness was renewed, and it is said the crisis followed the meeting last week.

TWO YOUNGEST CARDINALS IN LEAD FOR POPE?

Gasparri, Merry del Val Eliminated?

BULLETIN.

ROME, Feb. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—The thick veil of secrecy which has surrounded the Vatican deliberations was lifted slightly today when it was learned from a most authoritative source that Cardinals Gasparri and Merry del Val were the leading candidates throughout Friday. On Saturday the cardinals realized that the election of either of these candidates was impossible and both were virtually eliminated.

Camillo Laurenti, secretary of the Congregation of the Propaganda, and Giovanni Tacci, papal major domo, both created cardinals in 1921, then loomed up as compromise candidates. Cardinal Tacci was reported to be leading in the balloting.

ROME, Feb. 5.—There is still no pope in Rome.

Two more ballots were cast by the sacred college today. Both failed to produce the necessary two-thirds majority for any candidate.

A wireless message from Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston said he expected to reach Rome by noon Monday.

Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, and Cardinal Benin of Quebec are expected here on Thursday.

Locked, in stern incommunicado, within the walls of the Sixtine chapel, fifty-two cardinals of Peter's church pray, ballot, and again appeal for divine guidance in their holy task, which is to select from among them he who will carry the title of God's vicar on earth and be the supreme arbiter between the mortal and immortal among Roman Catholics.

Thousands Watch for Signal.

In the piazza of St. Peter's, 220 feet below the Palatine hill, a colorful crowd of some 70,000 faithful or curious persons wait and watch for a sign. All heads are lifted and eyes centered with almost hypnotic intensity upon the six inch tube of black tin climbing the drab side of the muddy brick wall and ending in a sooty chimney pot.

With apparent disregard to symmetry or design, the apostolic palaces of the Vatican rise abruptly, but unevenly, tier upon tier, like the terraces of palisades, pushing their tops upward to form a jagged line of red tile against the blue Italian sky.

The plain gabled roof of the Sixtine chapel—barrel-like in its outline and simplicity—superimposes itself above all the rest, looking down even upon the roof of St. Peter's. In front of the chapel the faithful, with uplifted faces, gaze on high for a sign.

Prince and Peasant.

The waiting thousands are but a handful of the millions throughout the world whose hopes and intercessions for peace and glory in the life beyond will come under the guidance and direction of the shepherd who will sit behind the throne of the Vatican, they await the sign—prince and peasant and millionaire—all one and the same in their concern for those things per-

Boer Chief in 3 Wars With England, Dies

BLOEMFONTEIN, Union of South Africa, Feb. 3.—[Friday.]—(By the Associated Press.)—Gen. Christian De Wet, commander in chief of the Boer forces in the war of 1899, died at his home in Dewetdorp today.

Christian Rudolf De Wet was born Oct. 7, 1854, at Leeuwpot in the Smithfield district of South Africa. He served in the first Anglo-Boer war of 1880-'81, and was a member of the Volksraad when the second war, in which he took such a prominent part, broke out.

His operations against the British were marked by considerable strategic ability. His forces falling upon and annihilating isolated British posts while the enemy's columns attempted in vain to surround him.

In the peace negotiations of 1892, he took a prominent part and later visited Europe with other Boer generals, seeking without avail, a modification of the terms of peace concluded at Pretoria.

Elected to Parliament.

He was elected a member of the first parliament of the Orange River colony in 1907, and was appointed minister of agriculture.

Shortly after the outbreak of the world war, he headed a rebellion in the Orange Free State and Western Transvaal, which was suppressed by the government forces after a brief month of fighting in which a son, Daniel, was killed and Gen. De Wet himself wounded. When his forces surrendered to those under Gen. Louis Botha, De Wet succeeded in escaping with twenty-five men, but was captured a few days later.

Sent to Prison.

For this rebellion, he was tried and in June, 1915, convicted of treason and sentenced to six years' imprisonment with a fine of $10,000. He was released, however, after being confined only six months.

While maintaining his stand for the freedom of South Africa, he did not again participate in armed revolution and in 1916 was instrumental in nipping another rebellion in the bud.

ITALIAN KING STILL HUNTING A NEW PREMIER

ROME, Feb. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—This was ex-premier's day at the Quirinal, King Victor Emanuel receiving in turn, Salandra, Orlando, Nitti and Giolitti, but no official announcement was made as to the king's probable choice for the premiership.

The majority groups favor the selection of Enrico de Nicola as head of a new cabinet replacing the ministry of Signor Bonomi which resigned last week.

If Signor de Nicola is disposed to resign the presidency of the chamber, political circles believe it practically certain he will be called to the premiership.

MARSHAL FOCH SPIKES RUMOR; LIKES HIS WINE

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 5.—In an interview in the Petit Parisien tomorrow Marshal Foch will say:

"Since my return from America it has been stated that I had become a teetotaler—exclusively a wine drinker. The truth is that I drink at every meal two glasses of wine—good old Bordeaux. It is not too much, I think, but it is enough. My pipe is my only vice."

Checking of the various angles of the case among members of the motion picture colony and other friends and acquaintances of Taylor almost invariably resulted in some development in which Sands' name was mentioned, according to detectives. Explanations of this situation are regarded as vital to the case in its present stage.

Clews All Prove Fruitless.

The police said they had had several clews to Sands' whereabouts, but thus far these had resulted in disappointments.

Claire Windsor, motion picture star, has added to the mystery of the slaying, and her story, told after she was interrogated concerning parties to which the recently accompanied Taylor, has emphasized the need for finding Sands, the authorities say.

"Mr. Taylor, Antonio Moreno, and Betty Francisco were at the Ambassador at a party on Thursday night one week ago, when Maurice, the dancer, first gave his exhibition," Miss Windsor told inquirers.

CAMERA MAN AND ACTOR IN TWO HOUR QUIZ

Take One to Studio to Check His Story.

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—A motion picture actor and a camera man were brought to the Los Angeles county jail here tonight for questioning as to their possible knowledge of clews to the murder of William Desmond Taylor, film director.

The makeup was still on the actor's face when he arrived at the jail, indicating, officers stated, that the deputy sheriffs who had brought him in, Al Manning, chief criminal deputy, and Harvey Bell, were in great haste to learn his story.

After a two hour questioning it was stated that the actor was escorted back to Hollywood by the deputies in order to enable him to prove the truth of his declarations concerning his movements on the night of the murder, while the camera man, it was said, was kept in jail.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—Search for a drug peddler, upon whose trail the police said they were "getting warmer," and the absence of a slithering nightdress, said by Henry Peavey, colored houseman, to be missing from the apartments of William Desmond Taylor, slain film director, were the outstanding developments here tonight of the search for his slayer.

Police were reticent as to the details concerning their search for the man, a peddler who was believed to have sought patrons for his contraband drugs among the employees of motion picture studios, but they intimated their belief he had attempted to make a delivery through Taylor to an actress who found it difficult to make her purchase in person.

Stolen Since the Murder.

The exact importance of the missing nightdress, which was pink in color, was firm in the declaration that it had a regular place in Taylor's apartments and equally firm in his assertions that since his employer was slain he had been unable to find it.

After the announcement of the search for the drug peddler deputy sheriffs left for an unnamed destination to which they termed the "most definite clew thus far discovered in the Taylor murder mystery."

They said they were going to interview "a certain party" and, possibly, make an arrest.

This was the first active participation of the sheriff's forces in the case.

NOTED ACTOR MISSING

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—The search for Edward F. Sands, missing butler of William L. Taylor, motion picture director who was mysteriously murdered Wednesday night, continued to be the most important element of their investigation of Taylor's death, police said today.

Checking of the various angles of the case among members of the motion picture colony and other friends and acquaintances of Taylor almost invariably resulted in some development in which Sands' name was mentioned, according to detectives. Explanations of this situation are regarded as vital to the case in its present stage.

Clews All Prove Fruitless.

The police said they had had several clews to Sands' whereabouts, but thus far these had resulted in disappointments.

FOR Today's Lucky Names

He said, "If I ever lay hands on Sands I will kill him."

Mr. Taylor seemed determined because Sands had robbed him of a considerable sum, Miss Windsor said.

Noted Actor Disappears.

Today it became known that a leading motion picture actor of the Hollywood colony, under suspicion in connection with the murder, has disappeared from his haunts, and is now being sought by the police.

The police were anxious to question him as to his movements on Wednesday night, when the assassin stole into Taylor's bungalow, hid in his study, and shot the film director down when he sat at his desk.

Chief Detective Adams holds the theory that this noted motion picture actor was jealous of Taylor's relations with a woman film star, whose name is well known in all motion picture circles.

This man's name was first linked with the crime as a possibility to be considered because he had been paying considerable marked attention to a renowned actress who is known to have been one of Taylor's most intimate friends.

Resembles Suspect at Scene.

The man in question answers the physical characteristics of the assassin whom Mrs. Douglas McLean saw leaving Taylor's bungalow shortly after a shot had been heard. He often wore a dark silk scarf, such as that figuring in Mrs. McLean's description, and also a cap.

It is stated by the police that the actor had a telephone conversation with Taylor two days before the murder.

The film actress whose name has been mentioned professes entire ignorance both as to the motive and the facts of the crime.

Question Vainly Once More.

Henry Peavey, valet of Taylor, who found his employer's body, came to police headquarters again today and was questioned by detectives for a half hour. It is understood he was asked for more detailed information regarding the arrangement of Taylor's furniture and other belongings in the apartments where he was shot.

Detectives would not state whether Peavey's examination had thrown any light on the case.

Two other men whose names were not divulged also were questioned at police headquarters, but under what circumstances was not disclosed. One of these men departed with detectives, who said they were going to check up on an angle of the case that previously had been under investigation, but they declined to be more specific.

Normand Notes Unimportant.

The whereabouts of letters which Mabel Normand, motion picture actress, said she had written to Taylor and which she said were missing from his apartments, continued to be a matter of suspicion today.

Miss Normand first called attention to the absence of the letters, which she said she had written to Taylor a few days before the murder. She said she knew of no reason why any one should want them, and that she would be willing to have published anything they contained.

Questioning of film actors and actresses and others who had known Taylor resulted in no important developments today, it was declared.

WILL IT EVER BE SOLVED?

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The murder of William Desmond Taylor may never be solved.

A score of sleuths are working on the case, but there are many baffling angles, many clues that lead nowhere, many tips that serve only to cloud the identity of the man or woman who fired the shot, and the mystery grows more complex every minute.

The detectives are still looking for Edward F. Sands, the former valet and friend of the slain director, for a man known as a broker; for another director; for a number of "hop" peddlers.

Twenty men and women are under suspicion. Twenty theories are being entertained. But not one arrest has been made, not a single clue has been unearthed, and the search has become all but hopeless.

City Sits Up and Takes Notice.

The murder mystery has brought the city virtually to a crisis.

There are hundreds of substantial citizens who see in the case the iron hand of the moving picture giant, holding down the curtain that the police and the newspapers would lift.

They believe the movie interests would spend millions of dollars, not to watch the murderer but to prevent the real truth from coming out, to avert the exposure of Hollywood, to squelch before it is born, the scandal of the century.

Taylor, who deserted his wife and baby some fourteen years ago, who lived under an alias, who surrounded himself with people of doubtful character, and who lived the typical life of the movie director as pictured in all the gossip of the studios, was the saint of Hollywood, according to his friends.

Tributes to Dead Director.

Mexico City, Feb. 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—Federal troops under Gen. Guadalupe Sanchez have been unable to locate the band led by Gen. Miguel Aleman (3), who a week ago revolted in the state of Vera Cruz, according to a statement by the war office. Aleman, who is said to have pointed some adherents since he started the rebellion, has declined combat with the federal forces, and is in apparent safety in the mountains near Santiago Tuxtla.

The war office reports that revolutionists to the number of 300, under Col. Francisco Cardenas (4 and 5), in the state of Michoacan, have been dispersed.

Notwithstanding a statement by would prefer to have this thing handled in silence, even ignored. They regret the death of Taylor sincerely, but they feel the least said about it the better.

They fear that with the revelations coming out of the mystery the doings of other film actors and actresses may become known, and these are things that would wipe out many a fair reputation.

They fear the world may come to know about all the little parties that help to relieve the tedium of studio life, the unconventional companionships that exist between extra girls and assistant movie directors in many instances, between male and female stars in other instances.

Dance of Seven Veils Mimics Vols.

They fear that the movie patrons may learn how "Thillie Hopsouth," who played the sweet country girl in the latest Blah release, entertains her friends by dressing them all in silken kimonos, irrespective of their gender, and squats them down in a circle to drink orange juice and gin, or beer and either, or some other queer mixture with a kick.

Orange juice and gin is the favorite tipple of many a dear, lovely child of the screen; and ether and beer is considered more or less the potion of a healthy he-man.

They fear that there might be some misunderstandings if the fans learned about those very free moonlight parties, sometimes held in the Beverly Hills district, where nymphs and naiads dance in costumes made purely of melting moonbeams.

Scandal That Means Revolution.

The thing is rushing to a head. It means disaster to many in the cinema colony. It means the loss of dollars to the companies. It means a revolution in the pictures.

Hollywood is content with itself and its morals and its views of life. It wants no change. It wants no chastisement. It wants to go on as it has been going.

The movie bosses are in power in Los Angeles.

They have been able so far to keep down the blazes. Did an exposure threaten they vowed to leave Los Angeles, bag and baggage, and Los Angeles can ill afford to lose the millions of dollars spent and invested by the movies.

If the movies leave Los Angeles, Los Angeles will suffer.

But even now the police are seeking to round up five peddlers of drugs, peddlers who have been in many a movie star's bungalow, peddlers who know sinister things about the cinema world, peddlers who may know something of the murder.

This Star Dreads Eclipse.

SALES TAX PLAN TO PAY BONUSES LOSING GROUND

Congress Seeks Way to Raise Cash.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Imposition of any form of general sales tax to finance a soldiers' bonus is no longer being urged by Republican leaders in congress.

Practical abandonment of the sales tax suggestion is admitted by the financial experts of the house, who say that a canvass of members has convinced them such a tax not only would be rejected by the house but probably would meet defeat in a Republican caucus.

President Harding's reiterated determination that there should be no bonus bill without an adequate means of financing it included therein caused temporary consideration of the feasibility of the general sales tax, but the leaders are now convinced they must find some other source of revenue.

Commodity Tax Likely.

An important conference with the President will be held this week on the subject, and present indications are that out of this will come an agreement to resort to special transaction and commodity taxes to finance the bonus.

A claim that at least seventy-five or eighty Republican members of the house are opposed to a sales tax in connection with bonus legislation was made today by Representative Dickinson of Iowa, a leader in the Republican agricultural group in the house.

He was active in the fight against the reduction in high surtaxes. This number, it is expected, would be sufficient to defeat a sales tax, inasmuch as the Democrats are likely to line up solidly against it.

Taxes for Any Kind of Tax.

The opponents of a sales tax do not object to proposed taxes on specified commodities or transactions as a general proposition. There will be some objection, however, from different quarters to nearly all of the taxes proposed, such as those on gasoline, bank checks, and increased postage rates.

Members of the committee believe it is more feasible, however, to impose special taxes than to attempt to put through any form of a general sales tax.

The financing of a bonus through use of interest on foreign loans or the sale of foreign bonds will continue to be urged by many members of congress, including both Republicans and Democrats.

The general impression is that the foreign loans would have been made use of with the consent of President Harding if Secretary Mellon had not taken a strong stand against it.

More Employment Ahead, Says Report.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—A prediction that there will be a decided change for the better in business conditions by early spring is made by Francis I. Jones, director general of the United States employment service, in his industrial survey for January made public today.

The reports on employment from sixty-five principal industrial centers show an increase of 4.3 per cent in the number of workers on Jan. 31 over Dec. 31, 1921. The figures apply to 1,428 firms, employing more than 500 workers each. These concerns employed 1,554,507 workers on Jan. 31 as against 1,498,197 on Dec. 31, a net increase of 56,310.

Increase of 4 Per Cent in Chicago.

Of the sixty-five cities forty reported employment increases during January over December. The largest increase was in Detroit, where the number employed was 89.9 per cent greater, due to a reopening of automobile shops closed for inventory. Chicago reported an increase of 4 per cent. In New York there was a decrease of 1.8 per cent.

Eight out of fourteen groups of industries showed increases in employment; the others showed decreases.

Industries showing increases in employment were food and kindred products; leather and finished products; paper and printing; liquor and beverages; chemicals and allied products; metals and metal products other than iron and steel; vehicles for land transportation and miscellaneous industries.

The industries which showed decreases were textiles and their products; iron and steel and their products; stone, clay, and glass products; tobacco manufactures, and railroad repair shops.

General Conditions in Illinois.

Commenting on general conditions in Illinois the report says: "The industries are now employing about 4 per cent more workers than last May. Considerable state road work will probably begin about March 1. The purchase of a 1,000 acre site for a new steel mill in the Calumet region is estimated will give employment to 7,000 at the outset. Several large railroads have placed orders for thousands of new steel cars. The definite arrival of winter during January accounts for the continued slump in the building and related industries."

Regarding conditions in Chicago the report says: "Basic conditions in steel industry show great improvement. Cash, door and general mill work plants working at capacity. Three important public improvement projects, the widening of 224 street, the completion of the big Union terminal within two years instead of four and the filling in of the Illinois Central slip at Randolph street, are under way. The widening and double decking of South Water street is to be put under way at once. Yuletide trade is reported bigger than last year."

BATTLE ON GUN TOTERS JOINED BY DOWNSTATE

Prosecutors and Judges Favor Law Curb.

Numerous judges and prosecutors in downstate counties yesterday announced their unqualified approval of the campaign of Chicago jurists, civic organizations and THE TRIBUNE for the suppression of a traffic in guns which in the last few months has been shown to be of appalling extent.

At Galesburg State's Attorney A. J. Batelle denounced the ease with which men can procure revolvers.

"I favor legislation that will absolutely restrict the sale of small firearms," he said. "I believe the legislation should cover all phases, including manufacture, transportation, importation and delivery. There is a great need of this elimination of the firearm danger and I believe THE TRIBUNE is on the right track."

Favors Restrictive Laws.

Judge Walter C. Frank of the Circuit court, favored legislation restricting revolvers to policemen and other officers of the law. "I do not believe in the present somewhat indiscriminate sale of firearms and the evil of it often confronts us in court," he said. "I think THE TRIBUNE is doing well in starting the agitation."

At Midvale both police and prosecuting officials strongly endorsed the anti-gun campaign. "A gun is used to kill," said Benjamin De Jaeger, chief of police and a veteran of 25 years experience. "I think the time will come when all guns will be confiscated—providing that manufacture, importation and sale is prohibited now."

"By all means let us have such laws. If guns are not carried there will be no murders. If a citizen knows the bandit who is confronting him is not armed, he himself will not need a weapon."

Rockford Judge for Regulation.

At Canton, Ill., the chief of police, the state's attorney, the judges, and all other peace officers are actively advocating drastic anti-gun legislation.

At Rockford Judge R. K. Welch of the Circuit court said: "I am in favor of reasonable state legislation prohibiting or regulating the manufacturing and selling and use of certain small arms. Care would have to be taken not to infringe upon the rights of persons in respect to a lawful use of rifles or shotguns in proper pastimes. There ought to be some way of getting at and controlling the conditions that permit the obtaining of guns by any one who wants them. There has been no real attempt in this direction, but I realize it is a hard problem."

One Murder for Day.

Guns brought Chicago one murder and numerous smaller crimes yesterday.

Michael Marz, 37 years old, 454 North Carpenter street, was shot and instantly killed by an unidentified man in front of 520 North Curtis street. Police believe it is "just another Black Hand killing."

Chicago's police force yesterday continued its campaign of searching all suspicious persons and, if guns were found, arrested them. Chicago judges, who have already unanimously taken action toward more severe anti-gun legislation, are planning to give all guilty ones maximum sentences, it was said.

PASTOR FIXES BLAME

In a sermon on the crime wave last evening in the First Presbyterian church, Michigan City, Ind., the Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins, pastor, charged the responsibility for the crime wave on moonshine, cheap lawyers in the office of the prosecuting attorneys, and sensational newspaper.

Dr. H. H. Hopkins was formerly pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church in Englewood.

"The old fashioned bond whiskey," he said, "made men hilarious and foolish, but white mule makes them delirious and wicked. Its victims want to kick three commandments out of the ten all at once—thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not kill, and thou shalt not run off with another man's wife or another man's husband."

"It would help check crime if we could keep cheap lawyers off the bench and out of the office of the prosecuting attorney. Many high priced and able lawyers are beating these cheap lawyers to a frazzle in their defense of notorious criminals."

VICTORY NOTES MAY BE USED TO PAY INCOME TAX

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Secretary Mellon has issued formal instructions to internal revenue collectors, it was announced today, to accept Victory notes in payment of income and profits taxes due March 15. Notes of either the 4% per cent or 3% per cent series will be taken by the collectors as a result of the secretary's order, which was issued under the provisions of the last tax law.

In connection with the announcement, the secretary issued the following statement:

"Victory notes, in order to be acceptable in payment of taxes on March 15, 1922, must be in coupon form and must have all unexpired coupons attached, that is to say, coupons for 1921 and Dec. 15, 1922, and May 20, 1923. Settlement for accrued interest on the notes from Dec. 15, 1921, the last interest payment date, to March 15, 1922, will be made by check from the federal reserve bank direct to the taxpayer. Victory notes in registered form will not be acceptable."

SEVEN SEAMEN HONORED, SAVED 4 OVERCOME BY GAS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Seven members of the cruiser Huron, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, have been commended by Secretary Weeks for heroism in rescuing four shipmates from a gas filled hold. The next of kin of two others who died, have received letters of condolence. The accident occurred last August.

A detail of mess cooks had gone to "break out" flour for the bake shop. Seaman David Matheson, the first to enter, was immediately overcome by the fermentation of damp flour.

Seaman John J. Morrill and Anton Huhn went to his assistance, but were made unconscious. The rigging of a wind sail to a discharge from the ventilating system to carry fresh air into the hold, enables others to reach the men, but not until Seaman William Wachter was added to those overcome. Seamen Morrill and Huhn died.

Stolen American Autos Flood Markets in Mexico

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Stolen automobiles are overrunning the Mexican market, according to a report to the commerce department today from John W. Dye, consul at Juarez.

The report said so many automobiles stolen in the United States were being sold in northern Mexico for about half their market value that the legitimate automobile sales business was seriously affected.

The cars, the report added, come principally from California and points near the Mexican border, although some have come from as far as Chicago.

France Opening Path to Deal With Russians

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Abandoning its cocksure belief that the United States could be argued into delinquent invitation to the Genoa conference, Le Temps tonight prints this significant statement:

"Russia's sufferings are bringing her back bit by bit into Europe's politics. Soon regardless of the Genoa conference, her return to the fold will be accomplished. It is necessary therefore that France should outline her position on Russian problems."

Journal des Debats tonight in an inspired article, identical with last night's attack by Le Temps on the United States, says: "We won't pay until we have been paid."

HISTORY MAKING PARLEY MAKES ITS ADIEU TODAY

Last Plenary Session to Sign Treaties.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Washington conference on armaments and far eastern problems will come to an end tomorrow with a plenary session given over to the formal signing of treaties and to a farewell address by President Harding.

Making his first appearance in the sessions of the conference since he welcomed the delegates on Nov. 12, the President plans to voice briefly his gratification over the results accomplished and his conviction that the experiment has justified full faith in the practice of settling troublesome questions in an "international meeting of minds."

Mr. Harding's belief in his "conference plan" has been so strengthened by the developments here, his friends say, that he regards the intangible relationships resulting as of even greater significance than the formal agreement to be consummated tomorrow.

President to Make Only Address.

Despite the small amount of work left, tomorrow's session may cover several hours. Four treaties and a supplement to a fifth are to be signed by delegates at the big green table in the Continental hall. The affixing of wax seals and all the exacting work of inspecting texts before signatures are affixed, and the final signing of the conference officials say there will be no disposition to hurry.

It is planned to complete the signing before the President speaks, so that as he delivers his appraisal of the conference he will have its final record of accomplishment on the table before him. There will be no other speech-making, and as soon as Mr. Harding has concluded the conference will adjourn sine die.

Most of the foreign delegates plan to leave Washington tomorrow night or Tuesday. Several issued statements today praising the achievements of the conference and the hospitality of the American people.

Conference "A Stroke of Genius."

The conference was "a stroke of genius" which has resulted in a service to the world that "will live in history as long as history lives," Baron Kato, head of the Japanese delegation, said in his statement. The agreements signed here, he maintained, "have given such reassurance as few but visionary dreamers had contemplated up to three months ago."

"With America's wealth and resources," Baron Kato added, "she could have dominated the seas. She chose, however, the way of truer greatness, which has commanded the admiration, respect, and love of the whole world."

"In Japan we realized that a new spirit of moral consciousness had come over the world, but we could not bring ourselves truly to believe it had struck so deeply into the souls of men until we came to Washington. Japan is ready for the new order of thought—the spirit of international friendship and cooperation—the greater good of humanity which the conference has brought about."

Collapse of Rouble Falls Soviet Budget to Ruin

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
RIGA, Feb. 5.—Indicating a collapse of the Soviet budget plans for the coming year, which is based on the gold rouble equaling 80,000 Soviet rubles, the financial commissariat officially quotes the gold rouble at 134,000. The dollar is quoted at 485,000. The present currency standard in Russia is the gold 100 rouble piece, unofficially quoted at 2,350,000.

TREATIES LIKELY TO PASS SAFELY THROUGH SENATE

Little Organized Opposition Developing.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—The work of the Washington arms conference is now up to the United States senate.

The important treaties which have come from the international convocation must be ratified before they will be binding upon the United States. President Harding is confident that they will be ratified. Whether he will say anything about his expectations in his address adjourning the conference tomorrow is not known, but he expects to send all the treaties to the senate within a few days. He may appear before the senate with them and deliver a short personal message.

Whether the President goes to the senate with the treaties or not, it is known that he does not expect any long drawn out battle over them. His conviction, according to Republican leaders, appears to be justified because there is no organized opposition to them.

Wilson Said to Be Noncommittal.

There will be individual opposition from several sources, chiefly from Borah and Johnson on the Republican side. Reports of organized Democratic opposition are persistent, but Senator Underwood insists that there will be no marshalling of Democratic forces against the treaties. Today it is reported that Democratic opponents of the four power pact and the naval pact have been informed that former President Wilson will make no attempt to prevent their ratification.

The fate of the treaties rests of course with the Democratic senators. One report is that twenty-two Democratic senators probably are against the four power treaty, but this number would not be enough to defeat it.

Underwood a Ratification Leader.

Senator Underwood, the Democratic floor leader, and Senator Lodge, the American delegates, will lead the fight for ratification. It was recalled today that when the treaties with Germany, Austria, and Hungary were submitted to the senate by President Harding, Senator Underwood urged ratification.

Up to the last moment that preceded the ratifying vote it was the general view in the senate lobbies and corridors that Underwood would not be able to hold more than seven or eight Democrats in line. On the final ballot, however, fifteen, or not quite half the Democratic total, swung to the support of the Alabama senator, and the treaties were ratified.

BLIZZARD GRIPS HUNGRY BERLIN WIRTH IN PERIL

Government Still Refuse to Deal with Strikers.

BY GEORGE SELDES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
BERLIN, Feb. 5.—In a raging blizzard the inhabitants of the capital of Germany stood in the streets today pumping old wells and trying to get out water, gas, electricity, street cars or railroads, in the midst of one of the worst winters on record.

Still the government refuses to deal with the nation's railroad men, who started a series of strikes confronting the country with the danger of a complete cessation of industry, partial starvation, and unprecedented hardships.

Groener for Iron Hand.
An informal session of the cabinet was held this morning, where Gen. Groener, who was Ludendorff's successor during armistice week, and who now is minister of transportation and instigator of President Ebert's drastic strike order, refused to compromise.

Nevertheless, the cabinet was informed the strike situation where is worse. With the aid of the emergency technical organization, the government was able to bring a few food and meat trains to the capital, but there is no milk in German cities today.

In addition, the Bavarian locomotive engineers have joined the strike, as well as the railroad men of Mecklenburg, which is in the nation's food supply zone.

City Employees Threaten.
Talk of a government crisis has revived on account of the new situation. Inclusion of all Berlin's city employees in the strike, while independent of the railroad men and long threatening, is timed to act as a sympathetic strike.

City employees are bitter against the government's strike orders. Despite severe penalties, they issued handbills calling upon the entire national militia to join the strike for more pay. In one Prussian militia district, the response was a letter of sympathy for the strike and for striking employees, but a refusal to join on account of government proclamation threats.

Some Water for Berlin.
This evening the emergency organization had succeeded in supply four-fifths of Berlin with water, but, with the exception of one suburb, Berlin was black except for the snow.

From the provinces come numerous reports of the hardships the industries are suffering. The Krupp works at Magedburg are closing tomorrow, on account of lack of coal. Dusseldorf municipality is stopping electricity tomorrow. The Ehrfurt street cars stopped yesterday.

Berlin municipality today confiscated private coal supplies to give to the hospitals and gas works.

taining to their existence beyond the grave.
Highly polished limousines, with coats of arms emblazoned on their mirrorlike surfaces and footmen in livery on the boxes, are parked next to shabby street cabs having faded, worn leather cushions and presided over by listless, unshaven drivers, who puff away at cigarettes and flick their whips with careless nonchalance over the dashboards at the ribs of their dejected animals.

Two fountains eject their silver sprays skyward for the prevailing wind to dispose of in the form of moisture for the hungry moss struggling up between the cobblestones. At the base of the obelisk in the center of a piazza a countryman has stopped his broad wheeled cart, and while he lounges on his meal sacks his bedraggled and somewhat frayed mule partakes of its midday meal between the heavy hand-hewn shafts.

The bright Roman sun sheds warmth and radiance upon the scene. Robust Italian mothers, with glittering gold earrings showing beneath their red velvet mantillas, clutch armful of squirming Italian cherubins while discussing the latest rumors with bent augees who lean on canes and relate legends of the early popes, who have long since passed on to rest among the bones and dust of the catacombs beneath the church.

Touches of Color.

Amidst the heroic sized monuments of the saints surmounting the vast colonnade encircling the piazza groups of intrepid spectators look down upon the moving throng below. There a bevy of nuns, their white winged head-dresses and spotless linen making them resemble a parade of geese, thread their way, two, by two, through the black density on the way to the performance of their religious duties before the altar of St. Peter's.

That area of brilliant red denotes a group of some twenty theological students of the German college in their vermilion robes and flat, brick colored hats, with wide brims, who have stopped on their return from their lectures to pay homage with their eyes to the black stovepipe that will signal the elevation of the master of their ordination.

Bearded Dominican friars, with seakless and sandaled feet showing beneath their coarse brown robes, gaze toward the chimney, shoulder to shoulder with young Irish novices whose pale and ascetic faces give forth religious fervor. Franciscan monks and Carmelites with shaven patees return salutations with grizzled monsignors, who lift their flat hats of shining velvet, exposing the purple skull caps of their ecclesiastical rank.

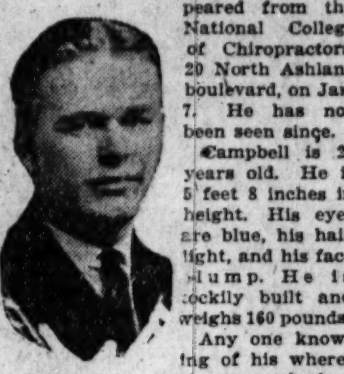

Gendarmes Look Fierce.

Italian carabinieri, wearing visored caps and silver stars of the royal guard, stand gossiping with black capped members of the gendarmes, whose needle pointed, black mustaches, and sliced watermelon hats lend additional ferocity to the short, broad swords which they carry on their sides.

This is Rome awaiting the coming

HUNT FOR WISCONSIN YOUTH WHO VANISHED FROM CHICAGO SCHOOL

THE TRIBUNE has been asked to help locate Norman P. Campbell, who disappeared from the National College of Chiropractors, 29 North Ashland boulevard, on Jan. 7. He has not been seen since.

NORMAN P. CAMPBELL.

Campbell is 22 years old. He is 5 feet 8 inches in height. His eyes are blue, his hair light, and his face is a m.p. He is stockily built and weighs 160 pounds.

Any one knowing of his whereabouts or who has seen him since his disappearance is asked to send the information to C. H. Campbell, Cashton, Wis.

of a new pope. Each noon and afternoon when the smoke wisps show black or a dirty yellow against the tile roof of the Sistine chapel the crowds, chattering with undemonstrative, move back across the piazza and mix with the street traffic surging down the choked exit to the Via Borgo Nuovo, whose narrow mouth vomits its human stream on to the banks of the muddy Tiber.

DEMOCRAT SAYS PARTY WILL CURE 'ROTTEN AFFAIRS'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Prediction that the Democratic party would make gains in every state in the north, east, and west, and would retrieve, in the coming campaign, the ground lost in Tennessee and Texas in the last election, was made today by Representative Arthur B. Rouse, (Ky.) chairman of the Democratic national congressional committee. In a formal statement Mr. Rouse announced that the congressional committee organization would be completed within a week.

Regarding political conditions throughout the country, Mr. Rouse said that reports from every state "indicate the people are not satisfied with the present administration, and are especially displeased with congress, because there has been a complete failure in redeeming the promises of relief that were made during the last campaign." He described business conditions as "rotten," asserting they were worse now than three months ago and were continuing to grow worse.

Kansas City Bakers Cut Bread to 7 Cents a Pound

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 5.—Announcement was made here today by officials of two large baking concerns that, beginning Monday, the price of bread produced by them would be reduced. It was announced that the retail price of the one and one-half pound loaf would be cut from 15 to 10 cents and the one pound loaf now retailing at 10 cents would be cut to 7 cents.

Have You Ever Read Anything Like This?

"Orphans of the Storm" is the greatest dramatic enactment the world has ever known since the living contests in the Roman amphitheater."

—Says Amy Leslie.

"It is Griffith's largest achievement—a play of plaintive beauty set like a pearl with the volcanoes of the earth's heart torn open. The refreshing youth of the Gish girls and Schildkraut come nearer the great truth of drama than the celebrities of another era. Its beauty is a continual feast, and its ammassment of armies, mobs and gigantic maneuvers plunge into the imagination with drawn swords of conviction and verity."

Amy Leslie, News.

"It equals 'The Birth of a Nation.' Work of this sort causes some of us who are, perhaps, too prone to turn up our noses at this eighth art to pause and reflect. The mad gallop equals in every particular the ride of the Klansmen in the 'Birth of a Nation,' and, for excitement, is superior to the famous ice scene of 'Way Down East.' The appeal the Gish girls make to the human heart is so strong that one need not blush for the tears that come to the eyes."

Paul R. Martin, Journal of Commerce.

"The Gish girls catch at heart and imagination. They are frailly lovely to see, and their emotions awake instant response in you. Joseph Schildkraut, as the young aristocrat who sees and loves Henriette (Lillian Gish), is a fine actor and is almost too beautiful to be true."

May Tinee, Tribune.

"The old master of the screen does it again. There were long stretches in 'Way Down East,' during which I thought of everything but 'Way Down East,' whereas 'Orphans of the Storm' is thick all over with the finest fat in the theater. It is a great story, containning audacity and imagination. It never strays; is one big unbroken melodramatic curve in which the streams of D'Ennery, Caryle and Griffith are interfluent."

Ashton Stevens, Herald-Examiner.

"Griffith has done it again. There are scenes Watteau would have loved to paint. As long as Griffith lives to provide us with photodramas no one need fear a foreign invasion."

Virginia Dale, Journal.

"It is supremely beautiful; delicately woven as to theme; and admirably handled throughout. Griffith has been great before, but he is greater now."

Rob Reel, American.

And the Herald-Examiner says:

"Love-making as soft and intriguing as a night breeze across May roses."

IT'S ALL IN THE NAME, TRY YOURS; PRIZES ARE GOLD

Horoscope Has 53 Winners Each Day.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Have you looked at the list of prize winners in the horoscope casting contest on this page? Your name may be there.

Keep on trying if you want to see your name in the list of the fifty-three lucky winners published every morning in THE TRIBUNE and posted in a first floor window of the Tribune building at 7 South Dearborn street.

Send in Name Every Day. If you want. Remember that the date you send in your name and the date I receive your name both count in the casting of your horoscope. You can't tell which may be your lucky day.

You may wake up one morning and see your name printed as the winner of the $250 first prize, the $100 second prize, the $50 third prize, or one of the fifty $5 prizes.

Send in your own name or the names of your relatives or friends. Put them all in one envelope if you wish. Each will receive as much attention as if it were sent in singly.

Send in your name, or if you are downtown bring it in me at the loop editorial office on the first floor of The Tribune building at 7 South Dearborn street.

Remember Grand Prize. And don't forget that a grand prize of $10,000 will be given at the end of the contest for the best horoscope of all.

Little 3 year old Estelle Cathryn Donnelly, 6716 South Winchester avenue, can't understand why all her friends are congratulating her. She is much more interested in her doll than in the $500 first prize which her lucky name brought her. The $500 is going to be put in the bank by her grandmother.

"One of the Chosen." The winner of yesterday's second prize of $250 was Hazel Genevieve McFarland, 214 West 6th street, Davenport, Ia. The horoscope showed that "Hazel" meant "one of the chosen." It isn't every one who can win $250 just on a name.

James Gregory Fahey, 938 Pine street, Winnetka, 21 year old New Trier high school alumnus, and winner of the Winnetka village golf championship in 1920, would not believe at first that he had won the $100 third prize.

Women Postal Employees Learn to Shoot Pistol. A number of good shots have been developed among the women employees of the postoffice department since they have been practicing with pistols at various ranges in the large cities, says the New York Evening Post. The practice is to familiarize the registry clerks with arms so that in an emergency they can protect themselves and the valuable property in their care. Not satisfied with the government schedule of target work, some of them are spending their own time on other shooting ranges with a view to entering amateur competitions.

Make Money by Standing as Proxies in "Queue." A number of young men who cannot find work are earning a livelihood by acting as "queuers" in London theaters. They charge 15d an hour, payable as the queue starts moving into the theater. "Several of us are doing a nice little business this way," one of them told a reporter. "Most of us have our regular clients, who, after visiting one show, tell us to keep a seat for them on a certain date at an other theater. We reckon to earn about 7 or 8 shillings a day—an it's worth it."—New York Evening Post.

Landlords, Forced to Lower Rents, Resort to Reprisals. BUENOS AIRES.—(By Mail to the United Press.)—Reprisals in the form of cutting off elevator service, electric lights, and water in their apartment houses are now being resorted to by disgruntled landlords, who have until recently been content to voice mere verbal protests against reducing rents. The government not long ago compelled owners of buildings to put their charges back to those current at the beginning of 1920.

Thirteen Year Old Boy Sets Fire to 28 Houses. Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—Confessing that he had set fire to twenty-eight houses in the city in the last six days, Robert, 13 year old son of Scott Davis, an ex-policeman, was arrested here today.

$100 Prize Winner.

HERE are two of the winners in yesterday's Lucky Name contest. Their names were placed under the horoscope. Careful analysis of its findings proved that the two were among the three luckiest of the day—little Miss Donnelly's heading the list. All they had to do to win the gold was to send in their names to the contest editor.

Collins' Stand Clears Situation. Collins' statement undoubtedly strengthened the position of the provisional government and has cleared the atmosphere. With the Nationalist element in the north clamoring to get into the Free State and the republicans of the south continuing to stay out, his expressed attitude has encouraged his friends in the north and palliated the less radical of the south. This leaves the Unionists of the north and the radical republicans of the south opposing one government for all Ireland. They can make trouble, but the provisional government is confident that they must and will come in.

Conditions Border on Anarchy. Numerous other local disturbances in the south show a condition bordering on anarchy. Two members of the Royal Irish constabulary were shot and killed at Lisdoonvarna, County Clare. This crime is considered a reprisal for the wounding of seven children in Ennistymon by a grenade being thrown through a window of a barracks being evacuated by black and tans. Another member of the Royal Irish constabulary was killed at Killarney.

DEMAND GERMAN RISK FIRMS PAY $5,000,000 LOSSES. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—(United Press.)—Over $5,000,000 of insurance which six German insurance companies failed to pay policy holders who suffered losses in the San Francisco fire of April, 1906, may yet be paid.

An organization of policy holders has been formed in San Francisco, headed by Harry Hill, insurance adjuster, to attempt to secure passage by congress of a bill directing the alien property custodian to sell such portions of property valued at $25,000,000 owned by the defaulting companies, as may be necessary to satisfy the claims.

The six companies withdrew from California in the days following the fire, leaving no deposits within the state, and merely refusing to pay claims. Policy holders, in some instances, were left destitute. Some of the members of the association now formed give their addresses as the county poor farm.

ULSTER PUT "IN MIDDLE OF A BAD FIX" BY COLLINS

Faces Loss of Big Areas Under Treaty.

BULLETIN. LONDON, Feb. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Michael Collins, head of the Irish provisional government arrived here today. Prime Minister Lloyd George presided at a conference of the Irish committee of the cabinet in Downing street this evening. The conference, in addition to Winston Churchill and Lord Birkenhead, included Austen Chamberlain, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Sir Gordon Hewart, Michael Collins, Kevin O'Higgins, and Eamon J. Duggan. Arthur Griffith has been summoned to London to join a similar conference tomorrow for discussion of the Ulster difficulty.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS. [Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] [Copyright: 1922 by The Chicago Tribune.] DUBLIN, Feb. 4.—The Irish Free State appears to have all the best of the boundary controversy between Sir James Craig and Michael Collins. If these two gentlemen do not decide upon a border, as provided for in their agreement at London, it will be settled according to the British-Irish treaty, with a Britisher as chairman of the boundary commission of three.

The provisional government is confident that if the line is determined according to the terms of the treaty it will get all that Collins claimed from Craig on Thursday, leaving Ulster only one whole county and parts of three others. For the north to function as a separate government against twenty-eight counties and parts of three others is regarded here as ridiculous, and the press asserts that there should be no concern about having to use force to carry out the Irish Free State aims.

The southerners cannot see anything but that the small minority of the north must submit to the Free State. It has even been hinted that perhaps Lloyd George has seen this always, but has been breaking the news gently to the Orangemen.

Collins' Stand Clears Situation. Collins' statement undoubtedly strengthened the position of the provisional government and has cleared the atmosphere. With the Nationalist element in the north clamoring to get into the Free State and the republicans of the south continuing to stay out, his expressed attitude has encouraged his friends in the north and palliated the less radical of the south. This leaves the Unionists of the north and the radical republicans of the south opposing one government for all Ireland. A NEW DEAL FOR BUILDING AND FOR LABOR.

Michael Artzy, a leader in the Chicago building trades, announcing the council's unanimous acceptance of the Landis award, says: "We will faithfully and sincerely live up to that agreement until its expiration a year from next June. If the public hasn't supported us in the past we want it now. We are asking a fair break from the public and a fair break from the newspapers."

"A fair break," we believe, is exactly what the unions should and will get. That implies responsibility and justice on both sides. Certainly it is the hope and intent of THE TRIBUNE to accept and accord exactly that.

The only thing that now remains for the building trades to do is to make good on the pledges cited. If they do that, if they go to work under the award, eliminating restrictive rules as provided, eliminating delay and waste of jurisdictional strikes, eliminating graft and coercion within their organizations, the unions will attain a position of respect and power for good to their members beyond their wildest hopes. A union or group which increases production of a necessary commodity, maintains peace in its ranks, and wins a reputation for reliability and efficiency is doing the greatest thing conceivable for the cause of union labor and for the profit of its members. More power to the unions if they will work to such an end.

The benefit to Chicago can hardly be overestimated. Sixteen months of steady labor will provide thousands of new homes for Chicagoans, scores of new office buildings, and probably hundreds of new factories. It will mean permanent investment of hundreds of millions of dollars from which Chicagoans will profit for years to come. It will save millions to Chicago rent payers, including the thousands of men engaged in the new construction. It will mean that every building tradesman will earn more money in the next sixteen months, even at the reduced wages, than he ever earned in a similar period before. It will mean stimulation of all industry through the improved purchasing power of these workers and through the activity of men and capital engaged in supplying building material.

If the men go back to work beside nonunion men who have been provided by the citizens' committee to take the place of recalcitrants under the Landis award they will show a good faith which will be recognized by employers, and which eventually will win them preference. And by that time, we believe, the demand for workmen will be such as to provide opportunity for every man in the trades. In such case the work of the citizens' committee would virtually be at an end. It was formed to enforce the Landis award. If the unions enforce it themselves by working under it, there will be no need for the committee. It can then profitably devote its efforts to checking building material dealers who might arbitrarily raise prices, as was done in some cases when the original Landis award forecast a building boom.

The reputation of such material dealers is no more savory than the reputation of a union which repudiates its agreements, and they should be checked with equal rigidity. While doing that the citizens' committee can maintain its organization, and will be in a position to encourage and help the working unions, or to discourage and penalize any which repudiates the straightforward statement of Mr. Artzy.

KEEP BUILDING TILL ALL STOP.

We trust the President has arranged with the Japanese and British governments for an immediate cessation of naval construction. Otherwise his plan to stop our building at once may prove not so economical as it seems. None of the Washington agreements are safe till they have been ratified by the governments of all the powers signatory, and while we expect all will ratify, it is not certain they will. Ratification may be postponed through a long parliamentary struggle and may finally fail. If in the meantime we have stopped building while our rivals have kept on, we shall have fallen behind perhaps in a serious degree.

Another consideration which ought not to be lost sight of is that by continuing our building we continue the pressure on our rivals for ratification. By letting up before our rivals do the possibility of gaining an advantage over us might turn the scale against ratification in a close parliamentary test.

These are not negligible possibilities. Saving five millions a month is tempting but it would be costly at the price we have suggested. Of course, if the other governments will act at once, the saving for us all would be welcome.

THE LIGHT THAT NEVER WAS ON LAND OR SEA.

When apprehensive people in this land of the theoretically free were disturbed by fear that proletarian autocracy would burst out of Russia and subjugate the world and when there was a good deal of talk of measures of defense, tidings of the end of peril penetrated the movie world. One of the most celebrated and fairest of the movie actresses, who appears under the management of one of the most celebrated of directors, heard about it. The legend of danger got even that far. It was universal.

"Well," she said, "Mr. Griffith of course is a pure artist. He is always above everything worldly, living way up on the heights, and Bill Hart is too old. Mr. Chaplin can't be depended on. He is too egotistic. So I guess we'll have to have a young man."

It is a ponderable, physical world, different from the one the others of us know, with different laws and different forces, different compensations and different immunities.

The movie world is one in which the woman glitters and the man eats the apple. Always, always, to paraphrase the motif of Cleo of Peacock Alley, humanity strives for pleasure, women lure and deck themselves with pearls and silks in order that men may respond, yield, and clutch. The fade out is upon the clutch. This is life and when vacuous but physically beautiful women and physically pretty or physically muscular men have done it for the camera they form a habit and begin to do it for themselves.

The world of the movie colonies is one which would make Mohammed weep and cry that he was born too soon. In his day a Mohammedan paradise was in its infancy. He grasped at an idea and failed to clutch it. His work was crude.

If he'd seen Hollywood, his heaven would have had far more kick to it and the entire state of California would have turned Mohammedan.

THE COMMUTER'S TICKET.

Time always is something which must pass to bring to hand something which is valuable. The moment must go to let in another. The hour, whether it is of sunrise, meridian, or twilight, must hasten along to give way to its successor.

Always it is the successor which brings gifts and bears gold. The commuter, offering his ticket to the conductor's punch, sees recorded the passing of time from which he gets no good and the coming of time which will be good.

February is of bright light and white sunshine, but the world is locked. The day screams of a morning and the chickadee sings and the nuthatch mines the bark of the white oak, but the world is frozen and pleasure is beyond the horizon.

There are ten nicks on the commuter's ticket, or will be by tonight, and, with Sunday, his day wholly in the cloister, six days have been taken from his store of life, but he wishes the punch were greedier, traveling more rapidly around his document of life in order that soon the meadow lark may be singing in the fields to the west.

It is the haste to lose what he never can regain, to get what he never may have, to exchange the condition he has for one he may never get, to substitute the future for the present and hurry the present into the past.

When the punch has nicked off all the days of February and the commuter has gone into March he will want to exchange the meadow lark for the wood thrush and when he has the wood thrush he will want to exchange it for the cicada. The traveling punch, going around the rim of his ticket, records the accomplishment of his wish and the defeat of his desires.

PROVIDING THE BONUS.

Now come representatives of the farmers and of organized labor before the house ways and means committee to oppose the use of the sales tax as a method of financing the soldiers' bonus. They represent more than the farmers and organized labor. They represent a common popular attitude: By all means pay the bonus, but get the money in such a way that only the rich will pay it.

That cannot be done. An expenditure of $300,000,000 to $450,000,000 a year for two years, as has been estimated as necessary to start the bonus, means additional taxation of an amount which will be felt. The burden and its consequent depressive effect upon the revival of business prosperity provide the most plausible argument against the bonus bill. Many conservative business men believe that the consequent depression will be so great as to do even the soldiers more harm than the bonus will do them good.

The TRIBUNE does not believe that, but it does believe that some sacrifice will be necessary to provide the adjusted compensation. It is proper to make that sacrifice as slight as possible, but it cannot be eliminated by attempting to shift the burden from one back to another. We do not presume to say whether a general sales tax, a miscellaneous luxury tax, some other form of special tax, or a combination of two or three should be adopted. What we would emphasize is that the money must come out of residents and that the money must come out of residents and property owners in America, and that the effort of any class, whether laborer, farmer, merchant, or capitalist, to dodge it will be futile.

If, as adherents of the sales tax maintain, that measure is a tax upon consumption, and therefore his heaviest the wealthy man who spends most, it is no unfair imposition. The point is to get the money, and to get it in the manner best calculated to avoid a disastrous burden upon industry in general or an injustice upon any restricted class or individual. The decision on method, it seems to us, is a task for the ways and means committee and the experts of the treasury department rather than for representatives of the farm class, the labor class, or the industrial class.

THE PROPOSED SHIP SUBSIDY.

(Houston Chronicle.)

Whether a ship subsidy is good business for us, it is certainly no other nation's business. Our ships are our own. We built them, and we paid for them, not with foreign money, either.

If we want to run them free, that is our own affair, providing we absorb the loss.

We claim a common right to the sea.

If other nations prefer to maintain large standing armies and acquire African or Asiatic colonies, that is their concern.

We prefer to boost maritime trade through the employment of public credit, that is our concern.

We are not deferring the payment of moneys owed other nations to subsidize our ships.

We are not asking them any favor whatsoever.

If they find themselves handicapped in meeting the competition which may arise by virtue of the proposed subsidy, it is mainly their own fault. Most certainly it is not ours.

While we knocked off to build railroads, they had a mighty easy time.

They seem to have taken this easy time for granted, and that too, is not our fault.

During the last fifty years most of our capital and energy went into rails and rolling stock. This was not because we had lost interest in the sea, but because a land transportation system was necessary before we could do business on the sea.

Having perfected our land transportation system, we are now ready to turn to the ships.

For years we have permitted foreign ships to carry our grain and meat and minerals over the sea, mainly because we were too busy providing means to get them to the coast.

All this is about to stop. Being well prepared to carry our export freight from farm to coast, there is no good reason why we should not carry it beyond the coast.

At any rate, the chances are that we will.

SEEK OIL EL DORADO

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 5.—The new oil fields in Venezuela and Colombia are exciting international interest. There is no district in the world having better prospects for the discovery and development of oil wells than the region from Tampico to Trinidad.

The back country of Venezuela and Colombia is filled with geologists, engineers, and explorers seeking oil. In the Lake Maracaibo district of Venezuela there is the greatest oil activity. Manager Kay of the Sun Oil company at Caracas, an American, said in his opinion the Mexican oil fields would be comparatively unimportant in three years.

Although the British control two-thirds of the Maracaibo field they have only one well, producing 4,000 barrels daily, in operation. The British entered the field early and they are now operating under more favorable laws than the newcomers. The latest laws are restrictive after thirty years. The Standard Oil company, the Sun Oil company, and the Dutch Shell company all have concessions.

President Juan Gomez controls the situation, and his attitude is sympathetic toward Americans. He is a dictator of the style of the late President Diaz of Mexico.

Recently the president was ill, and revolutionists, supposedly instigated by Señor Martinez in Paris, attempted to overthrow the government. However, Señor Gomez recovered and put down the attempt with an iron hand. There are some revolutionists operating in the interior, and government troops are said to have retreated near the Colombian border after an encounter, but the coast is safe. About 500 revolutionists came over from Colombia a few weeks ago, and it is not improbable that another movement is being fostered there.

Señor Gomez has been releasing political prisoners, but there are still many in prison, some, it is alleged, undergoing torture. It is stated that twenty-two officers in prison here are about half dead as a result of their treatment.

The new American minister to Venezuela, Willis Cook, was given a friendly reception, and the Gomez administration outwardly is helping Americans. The people in the interior think America is coming to rescue them some day. The country, which depends on the coffee market to a great extent for its prosperity, is recovering economically.

The problem of the oil men here is to get their product to the ships. The Maracaibo bay prevents the passage of larger vessels, and the government appears to be doing nothing to relieve the situation.

The German traders are returning and are getting back their old trade. They have just received a contract to erect a big wireless station. Americans might have obtained the contract had it not been for bungling tactics.

In Colombia the oil concessions are largely held by Americans. However, the Colombian government is said to be entering into negotiations for the sale of certain oil properties to Japan. The United States is not held in the highest esteem in this country on account of the row over the Panama canal. Furthermore, there is a fear in both Colombia and Venezuela that the United States may interfere in the affairs of the two Latin republics.

The white race in Venezuela is deteriorating, according to persons who have lived in the country for a long time, and labor is scarce. America gets about 50 per cent of the nation's trade.

British Guiana, a crown colony, 600 miles west of Jamaica, has ratified the Canadian-West Indian trade agreement. The colony has enabled the British to get an important economic foothold in South America. Its largest industry is lumber, and there are indications of oil.

THE BIG JOKE IN RUSSIA

BY DON S. DAY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

RIGA.—In far away Irkutsk in Siberia there is a real humorist whose only present ambition in life is to make typewriter ribbons. Recently he wrote a letter to the soviet national commissariat of economy which was published in the Moscow Pravda under the title "He Gets Stuck." The letter follows:

"Sometimes a certain machine will work beautifully for a little time and then stop. The master, after investigating every possible source for trouble, as a last resort takes the machine apart and oils it and puts it together again and it runs beautifully. Permit me to show how aptly this story applies to the soviet government.

"Throughout the whole republic there is an urgent need for typewriter ribbons. Factories tried to make them. Chemists and artisans labored in vain. The machines run as before. The steel characters beat in holes, but not on the ribbon. If a new ribbon is placed in a machine it lasts a day. Thereafter, no matter how hard the machine is punched, the paper remains snow white. Then the ribbons are returned to the manufacturer and are sold for bootlaces.

"At the same time, I, an old hand at making typewriter ribbons, am stuck in Irkutsk and am baking muffins, which I peddle in the market. I have knocked on official doors for the last two years and have only got black and blue knuckles for my pains.

"This reminds me of an incident which happened here about six years ago. A little girl got lost in the city, and later the same day a little girl was found. Given when the district captains reported to the prefect of police this great coincidence, pondered a long time on this remarkable coincidence. Surely there was something odd about one girl getting lost and another being found the same day. He gave orders to solve this matter and to return the found girl to her parents and to discover the one who was lost. This kept the police busy a week, till they discovered the found girl happened to be the one which had been lost.

"The same thing applies to me. Here some soviet department bound up in red tape is looking for a man who can manufacture black tape—that is, typewriter ribbons. And here I am looking for two years for this soviet department, trading with muffins in the meantime.

"Today I am finally writing to you, the national commissariat of economy. (And if there is no reply I am through. I shall open an office for signboards, and then, if they ask on their knees, I shall never make typewriter ribbons again."

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN.

Of those who have recovered from consumption to the extent where the disease has been said to have been "arrested" and to have remained so for several weeks or months, and who, feeling it somewhat safe to do so, have left sanatoria, a considerable percentage relapse, and may eventually die from consumption. This fact might as well be frankly faced.

In an investigation of 1,042 persons who had had the history outlined above, the following information was gathered: In 509 it was stated that the original treatment was insufficient, presumably meaning that they did not stay long enough in the sanatorium.

In 174 an attack of some intercurrent disease—example, pneumonia or pleurisy—caused the original disease to light up. In 137 overwork was the cause of relapse.

In 132 misconduct was the cause as given.

In 46 insufficient income was responsible. In 7 unhygienic working conditions, and in 5 unhygienic living conditions were indicated.

There is a general agreement now that a consumptive who has been through a sanatorium is in much the position of a boy who has been through college and faces the world the day after commencement. What he has learned may not help him unless he is willing to apply it, and has the determination to stick to his vitamins.

In the first place, he is very apt to fall into the old habits—those which caused his disease—when he gets back among the old surroundings and the old associates.

But note that only ten of these relapses were attributed to bad houses and bad work places, and only 132 gave misconduct as a cause.

Leaving out the half of them who had to quit the sanatorium too early, we find that about 30 per cent charged their trouble to overwork, and nearly 9 per cent to insufficient income.

This raises the question as to what the cured consumptive had better do. A confidential report in my hands gives, as the first essential, that he must keep under the direction of some health agency.

He should be examined periodically by a physician experienced in caring for tuberculosis, preferably by the superintendent of the sanatorium, where that is possible. He should be seen periodically by a nurse, who should advise with him about his work, his home, and his living habits.

The second essential relates to his work. On that point there are certain epigrammatic quotations or rules taken from the report in question:

"The consumptive must not take a post-graduate course, following treatment. He who can direct wisely regarding rest."

A NEW POST BOX.
Chicago, Jan. 29.—(Friend of the People.)—I live in the vicinity of Portage park, south of Irving Park boulevard. There is no mail box in this section. When we want to mail a letter we have to walk a half mile to the nearest mail box. Can something be done to remedy this inconvenience?
E. J. L.

Arrangements have been made to erect a box at the south-west corner of the intersection of Grace street and Long avenue, which is one short block south of the location proposed by you. This box will be established as soon as the condition of the ground permits, and it is believed will provide ample facilities for mailing in this vicinity.

IS THE BILL PAID!
Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 28.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—Five or six years ago I contracted a bill in the state of Illinois, amounting to $30, at which time it was charged to my father. Since that time the family have moved out of the state and I have married. I did not know anything about the debt until a few days ago when I received a bill, made out in my married name. I have no recollection to show, neither do I have any faith in the integrity of the merchant. Can he collect?

You do not state that you believe it was paid. If you do not make a stronger statement in court, he will probably be able to collect. If you can say that you paid, or that the debt was paid, your word should be as good as his.

PROPERTY IN IRELAND.
Chicago, Jan. 28.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—A man emigrates from Ireland leaving a piece of property worth twenty years ago. It has since been occupied by his young and only surviving brother. Could his three daughters make any claim on that property at this time? I have been told that in Ireland his children would be the sole heirs. How can I get information on this?
R. M. N.

Depends on whether the brother's possession has been continuous and adverse. Have a Chicago attorney forward the matter to an Irish attorney for investigation.

ANOTHER EXPLANATION OF CRIME.
Chicago, Jan. 30.—The public is very much interested in eliminating crime, but it is reasonable to suppose that there is an attempt to prohibit the manufacture of pistols and the sale of lawful citizens so they may protect their homes and themselves, there will be a real scrap. We have a law to prohibit carrying concealed weapons which the unlawful pays no attention to, and if there were a hundred laws of this kind it would be the same. We have laws against thieves, bank robbers, murderers, etc., but it does not prevent the crimes. The fault is not in the law itself, but it is entirely due to the fact that our law enforcing machinery is the most inefficient that could be evolved.

In this morning's issue you mention that the judges are urging a national law prohibiting the manufacture of pistols, which would be O. K. if the law were effectively enforced, but these same judges surely know we have every kind of law necessary to prevent crime, if they whipped the courts into law enforcing organizations which would quickly punish the thief and hang the murderer, and in this manner fill every prospective criminal with the fear of the law. The reason our courts are so inefficient, is because of the methods employed. The state's attorney's office has become a training camp for criminal lawyers, who serve as assistant prosecutors until they are competent to serve as the state's attorney. They then become graduates, resign and become criminal attorneys, filled with the same desire to make money regardless of the merit of the case as is adopted by the criminal himself.

In this manner, instead of the state's attorney's organization becoming an efficient machine to enforce the law, it becomes an efficient organization for the production of defensive means for the criminal, making it easier for them to avoid conviction. Surely our judges can prevent this. Unless we adopt the same efficient methods adopted by Canada in prosecuting crime, we must adopt primitive methods in which every law abiding person must carry a gun and become proficient in its use, as we used to do in the early eighties, when a gun was part of every one's wearing apparel in the west.

LET CIRCUMSTANCES DETERMINE CASES.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—With regard to J. O'Neill's article in Saturday's Voice of the People, "Should Married Women (Who Have Able Bodied Husbands) Work?" I agree with J. O'Neill that when the family consists of only husband and wife and there are no other persons dependent on them, the wife should not work in order to get finances. However, suppose you were in such a position as mine. I am engaged to a young man who has a mother, grandmother and little brother dependent on him. His mother works, but does not earn enough to support the three of them. I have a mother who also supports, though not entirely dependent on me, looks to me for her greatest support. Certainly no one could expect a young man earning an ordinary salary, having had no "war time" increase, with a "back to normalcy" decrease in view, to support a wife and wife's mother along with the rest of his family. A girl with any pride would not expect her husband to support her mother. Therefore, when I marry it is up to me to work in order that my mother may live.

No doubt you will all say that people in our position should not marry. We have waited for each other a number of years, both saving and trying to do what we could for our mothers and I believe you will agree that we should be repaid in a small measure, at least.

When employers arrive at the point where they will dismiss all married women from their employ, I sincerely trust that they will investigate each and every case thoroughly.

MR. GATES GETS INTERESTED IN A LOW-BROW GAME.

Wittenberg, Wis., Jan. 31.—I am not a little surprised that you would give so much time and space for the editorial page to the low-brow prize fight game and have urged a match between Wills and Dempsey. Your argument presented in Wills' behalf is entirely without foundation, as shown by Wills' poor work in his bout with second rate Tate.

In seeking about for something where-with to fill in the usual space, you have resorted the one time supposedly super-human George Carpentier under the headline, "Our Favorite Athlete."

The fact that Carpentier is intelligent, panther-like, speaks French (what a pity if he could not speak his mother tongue), plays the piano, and has a knockout punch, you will admit availed him nothing when he met our American, Jack Dempsey.

RUSSIANS DYING LIKE CATTLE ON BARREN STEPPES

Hundreds of Thousands of Men, Women, Children.

UFA, Volga Region, Russia, Jan. 7.

[By the Associated Press.]—When the snow melts next spring the Russian steppes will be strewn with skeletons. They will resemble the high prairies of the American cow country in the days when the big cattle outfits had insufficient hay to carry their stock through a hard winter.

But among the skeletons of cattle and camels there will be the bones of hundreds of thousands of men, women, and children.

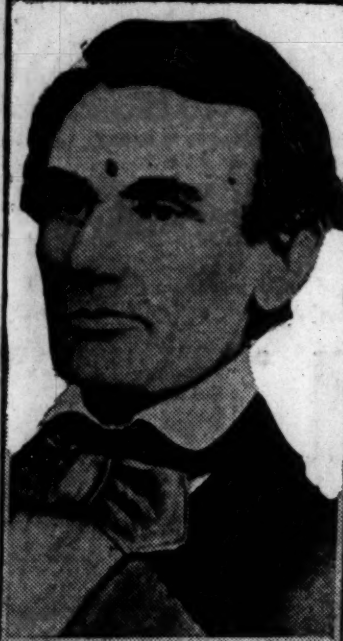

They wandered, and millions of them are still wandering. There was nothing to eat in their homes, so they started on the trek for bread. Some drifted westward to the Volga and found death in the typhus ridden railway centers, or among the horrors of refugee camps along the Volga; others started for Turkistan; still others moved eastward toward Siberia, the land of gold and wheat, which has always been so alluring to the Russian moujik, who heard little of its vastness, its hardships, and its heartlessness.

Sit Down to Await Death.
But the country districts have no grain, or, if peasant families have a small supply, they conceal it in the effort to prolong their own lives until another crop is harvested. In the larger towns there is food for sale at fabulous prices, but the starving refugees have neither money nor goods to exchange and can only sit down to await death or trudge on until they sink of exhaustion.

The bodies that lie along the railroads are collected on cars and hauled to centers where they are piled in frozen, snow covered heaps to await burial. Freezing refugees remove all garments from the dead, so the frozen bodies are nude when the scavengers collect them.

All Tribes Suffer.
From Persians and Ekaterinburg to the Caspian sea death is stalking over the steppes. Russians, Cossacks, Kal-

This photograph, which was taken by a friend of Lincoln, shows him at the age of 18 years.

musks, Kirghiz, and Tartars alike are meeting their end with hopelessness and patience begotten of centuries of unequal struggle against political extortion and unfavorable climatic conditions, made worse by ignorance of scientific methods of tilling the soil.

American corn will be too late to save many of these wanderers through the steppes, as well as the families who have elected to make their fight in their villages, remote from the railways, rather than endure the hardships and death their neighbors have power to deliver food to the thousands of snowbound, destitute settlements far from food stations.

Entire village populations have died in the provinces east of the Volga, and the animals which survive are so weak it is impossible to get adequate horses power to deliver food to the thousands of snowbound, destitute settlements far from food stations.

AGED WOMAN FOUND DEAD.
Quincy, Ill., Feb. 5.—Mrs. Ida Gruff, 58, was found dead in a cistern at the home of her aged father, Amos Linn, in Liberty, near here. The body was discovered by her father after she had been missed from the house. Members of the family say there was no reason which would point to suicide.

FRENCH DANCE PROFESSORS PUT BAN ON 'SHIMMY'

Want 3-Step to Replace Acrobatics.

BY WEBB MILLER.

[United Press Staff Correspondent.] PARIS.—At present the style of dancing in France resembles the second and violent stage of an epileptic fit. It is fondly thought to be the real American stuff. It is called the "shimmy," pronounced the "she-may." For the last year the vogue of so-called American dancing has literally speaking, shaken France to its depths.

And the French dancing professors in solemn council assembled revolted and pronounced the death warrant of catch-as-catch-can styles. As far as ascertainable, the only folks favoring the retention of the St. Vitus-like evolutions are the dancers themselves, the dentists, and shoemakers. It scuffs up the shoes and shakes many teeth loose.

Prof. Bourdell, an authority on dancing and master of the ballet of the Gaite-Lyrique, is the leader of the movement to displace the acrobatic dances with the more dignified and less active "three step."

The professor declares that the violent dances are an outgrowth of the war, and that it is high time the world reverted to peace conditions in the dancing.

Many of the "shimmy parlors" in the Montmartre district open at midnight and run until about 6 o'clock in the morning. They have an American bar, where the bartender shakes drinks for the performers.

In full blast these "dancings" resemble a cross between the Yale-Harvard football game and a can of animated sardines. The highest priced and most popular place is the Perlequet.

Gas Fumes Prove Fatal

to 2 Men and 2 Women

New York, Feb. 5.—Gas killed two women and two men here today. The bodies of Mary and Elizabeth Howard, 45 and 48 years old, respectively, were found in Brooklyn. Albert Berg, 55, was found dead in bed at his Broome street home. Closed windows and a wide open jet pointed to suicide. John Brown succumbed to fumes escaping from a gas heater in a bathroom of his home at Far Rockaway, where he was shaving.

Valparaiso, Ind., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The trial of Engineer Long and Fireman Block for manslaughter in connection with the Porter wreck has been again continued until Feb. 13.

ATTORNEY MAKES CHARGE AGAINST ARKANSAS TOWN

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 5.—Allegations of threats against him, of invasion of his room by the police, and of incarceration in the city jail at Eldorado, Ark., were contained in a formal statement issued here today by Henry C. Julian, a Kansas City attorney, on his return from Eldorado.

Mr. Julian said he went to Eldorado at the request of local clients, who informed him of seven men in trouble. The prisoners, he said, had been fined on a vagrancy charge.

"I was constantly importuned to leave town, and was told that the Ku Klux Klan were strong there, and had vigilance committees that tarred and feathered men on all occasions."

"I told them I was from Missouri, where they did not believe in Ku Klux strong arm methods; that they could not point to a case in Missouri where a man had been Ku Kluxed or tarred and feathered who understood the mechanism of an automobile."

The seven men were then released and Mr. Julian paid their way out of town.

TANGLED IN RAW, DEER.

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 5.—Martin Tate, 31, died from injuries received when he became entangled in the saw at a mill near Palmyra, Mo. One of his legs was cut off and both arms nearly severed before he could be rescued.

DRY LAW HURTS RESPECT TO LAW —JUSTICE CLARKE

Supreme Court Jurist Sees Danger.

New York, Feb. 5.—Respect for all laws has been put under a "demoralizing strain" by the national prohibition amendment, Associate Justice John H. Clarke of the United States Supreme court told alumni of New York university law school at their annual dinner last night.

"The eighteenth amendment," he said, "forced millions of men and women abruptly to give up habits of life which they thought not immoral and not wrong, but which on the contrary, they believed to be necessary to their reasonable comfort and happiness."

"Thereby, as we all now see, they lost respect not only for that law, but for all laws. This has been put to an unprecedented and demoralizing strain in our country, the end of which it is difficult to see."

Too Much Litigation.
The mass of trivial litigation brought before the Supreme court of the United States was deplored by Justice Clarke. He urged lawyers, in order to conserve the time of the court, to consider as a citizen rather than an advocate whether the case was of sufficient general importance to justify his calling it to the attention of a body primarily organized to deal with matters of greatest public concern. He also begged that the facts in a case be well and tersely stated and that briefs actually be brief.

Like to Reach High Court.
"There seems to be a type of lawyer in every part of our country who, once he is retained in a case, no matter how trivial, sets to work with all the ingenuity he possesses, to impart into the record a federal question which he thinks may enable him to carry it to the Supreme court of the United States if he should prove unfortunate in the courts below," said the justice. He added that cases came from every part of the earth, especially from the District of Columbia.

He added that, while it was not for him to eulogize the Supreme court—which recently had been called "the living voice of the constitution"—the scope of the court "has become so fearful that the effects of many of its decisions upon the welfare of our country are so great as would be the results of decisive battles in a great war."

TAKES LIFE BEFORE CROWD.
Janeyville, Wis., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—William McFar, 65, wealthy, today jumped off the Court street bridge into the Rock river in sight of many churchgoers. He was dead when pulled ashore.

SEES AWAKENING OF PARENTS TO SEX EDUCATION

Parents are awakening to the problems of moral and sex education in the home, and are anxious to prepare their children to meet abnormal conditions, was the conclusion of Dr. Philip Yarrow, field superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance association, after twenty-nine conferences with parents in all parts of the city held in January.

Dr. Yarrow, in his report, declared that it seemed to be the popular thing to saddle the blame for children's delinquency on the parents' indifference. When this criticism is overworked, he continued, dance hall proprietors put the blame on the young people themselves, with statements they are of "questionable morality."

Alleged Slayer of Cop Goes on Trial Today

Pana, Ill., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—Owen Giddy Nash, 22, will go to trial in Pana City court tomorrow for the murder of Policeman Thomas Hughes, whom he is accused of shooting to death on the streets of Pana the night of Dec. 23, 1920, while Hughes was attempting to arrest him. Nash will plead not guilty. Judge Harry C. Stitt of Litchfield City court, will preside.

"Lit Up," Police Say, He Burns Children's Clothes

ROADS PREPARE BROADSIDE FOR HINES AND M'ADOO

Renew Charges Against Federal Control.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Statements made by William G. McAdoo and Walker D. Hines before the senate interstate commerce committee in the general investigation in railroad conditions in defense of their administration of the affairs of the United States railroad administration in the twenty-six months the railroads were under government control will not go unanswered by the railroads. Representatives of the Association of Railway Executives have been assured by Senator A. B. Cummins, chairman of the committee, that they will be given an opportunity to submit rebuttal testimony.

Brief cognizance of the statements made by former Director General Hines has already been taken by the railway executives. They contend that as Mr. Hines had control of both expenses and rates in the latter days of federal operation, and did not increase rates to meet expenses, he refused to recognize the moral obligation

SIGN EXPERT WILL LOOK OVER SOUTH AMERICAN FIELDS

C. Johnston Smith, director and sales manager of the Thomas Cusack company, left yesterday for South America, where he will study signboards, locations, and possibilities of extending the great American signboard to that country. He will be gone four months. Mr. Smith is a member of the Hamilton club and is active in politics. The American system of signboards has not been used on any great scale in South America, and numerous requests to the Cusack company have given the incentive for the research work that will be done by Mr. Smith.

JOHNSTON SMITH.

to maintain the proper relationship between railroad revenues and railroad expenses.

Can't Forgive Hines' Rates.
The railroads cannot forgive Mr. Hines for refusing to increase rates, leaving to them at the end of federal control the task of getting their rates to the point where they would meet operating expenses.

Former Director General McAdoo went much further in defense of the railroad administration than did Mr. Hines, and it is expected that the guns of the railway executives will be directed more to his testimony than to that of Mr. Hines.

After a fashion, Mr. McAdoo "passed the buck" in his repudiation of charges made against federal operation of the railroads. He carefully built up his case on the premises in part that the railroads were not operated by novices and inexperienced men during the period of federal control, but instead by prominent railway managers, the inference being that if there was inefficiency some of the blame must rest on the experienced managers.

Train Guns on McAdoo Statement.
For five months, Mr. McAdoo averred, he tried to operate the railroads with the corporate managements in charge, warning the railroad presidents that they were "on trial." The result of that procedure, he declared, was so unsatisfactory that he had to take the railroads away from the corporate managements and build up his own organization.

Mr. McAdoo's voluminous defense of the railroad administration and government operation will be dissected minutely by the experts employed by the railroad executives and the result will be offered before the senate committee.

WETS AND DRY GIRD FOR FRAY IN OHIO STATE

secretary of state, for the gubernatorial nomination and Carmi Thompson also may get into the running.

The Democrats think they could defeat Davis with little effort. Their candidate is likely to be Vic Donahay, who ran against Davis in 1920, and probably would have been elected had it not been for the Harding landslide which swept Davis into office. Davis ran far behind Harding and lost his own county, while Donahay ran far ahead of Cox.

The Ohio delegation in the national house, now solidly Republican, is up against a hard fight, and the party will be lucky if it loses no more than six or eight seats.

These Democrats May Win.
Among the former Democratic congressmen almost certain to be returned are Ashebrook in the Seventh district and Geeske in the Fourth. Former Representative Isaac Sherwood, a venerable civil war veteran, wants to go back from the Toledo district and former Representative Davey from the Fourteenth. The Twentieth and Twenty-first districts in Cleveland probably will go Democratic. Kerns in the Fifth will find a formidable opponent in Mayor Gableman of Portsmouth. Knight, an Akron editor whose pen has made him many enemies, was swept in by the Harding landslide, but may find his reflection boom punctured by the fire workers.

China Grateful to U. S. for Aid in Washington

PEKING, Feb. 2.—[By the Associated Press.]—Approval is expressed in all officialdom and by the conservative press of the president's endorsement of the terms for China's purchase of Japan's interest in the Shantung railroad. Many provincial messages have been received voicing gratitude for the help of the United States and Great Britain in securing terms satisfactory to the Chinese people. Popular organizations have announced determination to secure completion of the purchase within five years. The provisional governors have already pledged large subscriptions.

GEO. W. JACKSON, NOTED ENGINEER, CONTRACTOR, DIES

Pneumonia Fatal After 4
Day Illness.

George Washington Jackson, civil engineer and directing genius of many notable tunneling achievements in Chicago and elsewhere, died yesterday morning, fifteen minutes after he had been removed from his home to the Evanston hospital.

Pneumonia, developing from a severe cold contracted last Thursday, was the cause. Mr. Jackson was 60 years old. He was senior member of the George W. Jackson & Fitzpatrick company, excavating contractors, 104 North Franklin street.

Was Romantic Figure.

Through the death of Mr. Jackson, Chicago—though Evanston was his home during the last seven years—loses one of its most romantic figures. His career as a contracting engineer started in 1883. His first work was building a sewer for the city, and he himself wielded a pick and shovel. It was not many years before the contracting concern of George W. Jackson, Inc., with office in several other cities, was one of the largest in the country.

But financial reverses followed the disastrous fire at the 49th street crib tunnel under Lake Michigan which the Jackson company was building at 738 street. A committee of editors investigated the company's affairs in 1911, and three years later the company went into the hands of a receiver, with liabilities listed at $180,000.

Since then, Mr. Jackson, once a millionaire, had cherished one ambition—"to come back." It is said the goal was well within sight when death came.

Important Works Many.

Perhaps the veteran contractor's most important work was the construction of Chicago's sixty miles of freight tunnels. He was also contractor for the Strickler tunnel through Pike's peak, installed 94,000 feet of pneumatic tube service for the Associated Press of Chicago; constructed the new Dearborn street bridge, new 22d street bridge, and several others; built the street water tunnel, Wentworth and Belmont avenues drainage systems, and about 90 per cent of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, Postal Telegraph and Cable company, and the Western Union Telegraph company underground systems.

City Traction Expert.

Since February, 1920, Mr. Jackson had been engineer for Mayor Thompson's traction commission. He favored a subway system and submitted proposals for the construction of one. He was an advocate of return to the 5 cent fare for surface lines and suggested many plans for more economical operation. One of his recent proposals for double deck street cars—is now under advisement.

Mr. Jackson, who was born in Chicago, is survived by the widow, Mrs. Pearl M. Jackson, his second wife, and one daughter and two sons—Mrs. A. D. Shanks, 2083 Estes avenue; Thomas C. Jackson, a member of his father's firm, and George W. Jackson Jr., 3 years old.

With burial at Graceland cemetery, the funeral probably will be held tomorrow afternoon.

MENTAL DEFECTS OF EX-SOLDIERS
TO BE DISCUSSED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(Special)—Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans' bureau, has invited leading neuropsychiatric specialists of the country to confer here to form definite recommendations as to the solution of the neuropsychiatric problems of the Veterans' bureau.

The records of the bureau show that there are at present approximately 6,000 ex-service men hospitalized for mental diseases. There are also thousands of mental cases who are beneficiaries of the Veterans' bureau, but who are not hospitalized. This hospital population of neuropsychiatric cases will materially increase during the next few years. A large number of these cases are "shell shock" patients. The effect of the war experience often does not become apparent until months and sometimes years have elapsed.

The question of treatment for this class of cases will be discussed.

The Question.

THE TRIBUNE'S news radio service?

Asked By Radio.

Theodore Plante, electrician—I have put a small receiving set in my home and have been listening to the news and music rendered. I think it's great. The music and songs come in very clearly, and a little peppy ragtime goes good, too. I time in every night at 8 o'clock and stay to the finish.

Harold G. Davis, radio expert—

—THE TRIBUNE news bulletin are fine, but the concerts could be improved with some popular pieces. And I don't see why the amateurs were stopped from broadcasting. They are sharp on wave and have popular pieces. But then, I suppose, it is necessary.

Paul Garter, high school student,

—I want to say right here that we sure do enjoy your radio concerts and news bulletins every evening. The opera during the season was wonderful. Here's hoping you keep the good work up and give us as great a variety as you can.

G. Kennedy Ketch, 423 Wrightwood avenue—The news service over the radio phone by THE TRIBUNE is the greatest thing of the day. As radio will be the coming means of all communication, I am sure those who appreciate the desire to be of service and the progressiveness of this Tribune.

Clarence E. Davis, Sublette, Ill.—

At the present time there are so many concerts, speeches, and news items of interest being sent that one is mist and in reading a great deal if he doesn't have a radio set, especially in the locality where I live. These people don't get any sort of entertainment without going to the city.

MAMMOTH GUN IS LANDED IN CUBA
FROM U. S. SHIP

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba, Feb. 5.—Anchored in Guantanamo bay, opposite the naval station, the United States battleship Florida has successfully lowered from her decks and landed on the beach a 155 millimeter gun on a massive mount and tractor. The big field piece, completely set up and in readiness for action when it reached land, was swung over the side to a platform built on two large motor boats, making a pontoon that would with its own power carry the gun to shore. This was followed by the landing of two field pieces of 75 millimeter caliber and tractor tracks for ammunition and the train of a landing party.

The whole action was done with great dispatch and without a hitch, and all equipment landed without incident. These guns and tractors are a part of the equipment of the advance base of the marine corps. The guns are now at the marine's post of the Guantanamo station, where they are manned by a detachment which recently arrived here from Quantico, Va.

The men are to be drilled with the gun, especially with a view to its use in landing parties, as was demonstrated in the handling by the Florida.

Educator Trying to Buy Baptismal Font of America

An American educator has been trying to buy, at Franco-American memorial, a building that few Americans ever heard of, though it has been called the "baptismal font of America." It is the house in St. Die, on the Meurthe river, about six miles from the old German frontier, in which in 1507 the name of America was first put on the printed page and engraved on the map.

U. S. MAY STOP CASH FOR I. N. G., CLINNIN WARNS

Sees Danger in Political Appointments.

Prediction that the United States government would cut off the appropriation for the Illinois National guard if it is not kept out of politics was made yesterday by Col. John V. Clinnin, first assistant district attorney.

He made this statement following the announcement of Gov. Small Saturday that Frank S. Dickson, adjutant general of the Illinois National guard, had resigned, and that Col. Carlos E. Black, his personal military aid, had been named as his successor.

Clinnin Formerly Officer.

Col. Clinnin, formerly commander of the infantry, lost his position in the state military organization last March, when his organization was wiped out and Maj. Gen. Joseph B. Sanborn, the hero of Chippilly ridge, ousted from his command of the state troops and placed on the retired list.

Until the present administration the post of adjutant general was not considered a "political office." Gen. Dickson was first appointed to his post by Gov. Charles S. Deneen in January, 1910. He continued to serve throughout the administration of Gov. Dunne.

Small Changes Personnel.

No change in office was made by Gov. Lowden, and it was not until the indictment of Gov. Small that rumors of friction in the department began to circulate. Shortly afterwards Gov. Small appointed a commission to investigate the guard. Col. A. E. Inglesby, son-in-law of Gov. Small, was named chairman of the commission.

Saturday, after a conference with Col. Inglesby, Gen. Dickson came to Chicago and conferred with Gov. Small. It is reported he was forced to resign. At Springfield Gen. Dickson refused to discuss his resignation, but rumors were that others not in the Small political camp were slated to go.

"I was not surprised when I learned that Gen. Dickson had left the service," said Col. Clinnin yesterday. "I have heard rumors that he was to go for several months."

All I have to say is that if politics are allowed to enter into the national guard it will be impossible to keep up its efficiency. In that case the government will step in and either make changes in the personnel itself or cut off the appropriation. The state military forces should not be allowed to fall into the hands of a political party."

PLAN TO GIVE COLOR TO GEMS
NOW COLORLESS

If experiments carried on at the Reno station of the bureau of mines are successful, says the Mining Congress Journal, it will be possible to give color to colorless gems which exist in abundance in the west. The experiments have produced results regarded as promising. The penetrating radiation of radium is the agency through which gems are being colored. In a preliminary experiment, a colorless Colorado topaz was tinted yellow. The coloring when exposed to light was found to be not permanent, and the experimentation continued with a view to making the color lightproof. Successful termination of the experiments would add materially to the value of western gem stones.

ASK RETURN OF GERMAN CENSOR

The censorship of stage matters which was at one time rigid in Germany has been relaxed, and the result was that the theater going public has resented this and has shown displeasure by stopping the shows in several parts of the country. In some cases actors and actresses were seriously injured by the demonstrations which took place. There is a general demand for a return of the old time censorship when only the best plays were sanctioned.

CLERGY REFUSE TO BE DELILAH TO CITY VOTERS

Oppose Shearing Them
of Representation.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

An attempt of the Anti-Saloon league through its president, R. Scott McBride, to enlist the support of the churches for its program of limiting Chicago representation in the state legislature under the proposed new constitution was yesterday rebuffed by prominent clergymen.

The following letter was sent by Mr. McBride to all the clergy:

"Please present this matter in message and announcement to your congregation," it reads, "and have scores of telegrams and special delivery letters sent to the members of your district, asking them to favor county representation on reconsideration of the vote."

"Blackest Day in History."

"Illinois will face the blackest day in its history if this is defeated. We knew you would want to help in this crisis. We never asked help in so important a matter," McBride wrote. "I did not request my congregation to approve the plan of county representation proposed by the Anti-Saloon league," said the Rev. W. B. Norton, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, Presbyterian, Belden avenue and North Halsted street, "for the reason that the question is neither religious, ecclesiastical, nor moral. It has to do with the political constitution of the state of Illinois, and as such should be decided in the light of fundamental jurisprudence of representative government."

"Such knowledge and authority are not the duty of the church as such, but of citizens in the land of liberty responsible for making the government wise, true, and elevating."

Permanent Political Wrong.

"The plan of the Anti-Saloon league seems to be a device to obtain a temporary moral advantage at the cost of a permanent political wrong. With the rapid progress of prohibition it will not be many years until the evil of liquor has been abolished and the reason for this proposal of the league shall cease but the evils of it in the disfranchisement of Chicago will continue."

"It is far better that the Anti-Saloon league devote itself to the moral betterment of our people than inflict on them a political wrong."

TICKET SCANDAL CASES CANNOT BE TRIED TILL APRIL

Present Docket Is Loaded
By Jail Cases.

Seven Lundin-Thompson followers indicted Saturday by a special grand jury in connection with the city hall money tribute scandal probably will not be brought to trial until some time in April, Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman said last night.

These, according to Mr. Gorman, are "hall cases," and must wait until the present docket of "jail cases" has been cleared.

Whether others of the defendants alleged to have violated the civil service law by soliciting funds from merit employees, through the sale of Riverside jubilee tickets and subscriptions to the Republican, the city hall organ, will be scratched from the city pay roll remained an open question last night.

William G. Keith and Roy J. Battle last week lost their jobs—as commissioners of gas and electricity and as chief clerk in the city controller's office respectively—when reports as to the probable action of the grand jury reached the Lundin-Thompson camp.

Of the five others indicted, three are city employees. These are William Stocker, city sealer; Walter George, assistant treasurer for the board of education; and Nicholas E. Murray, city superintendent of sidewalks.

Department Heads' Problem.

The remaining two are Lincoln park employees—Tilden Strickler, manager of garages, and Thomas H. Queenen, electrical engineer.

Harry E. Walling, secretary of the city civil service commission, said last night:

"The question of suspending those indicted is not for the commission, but for the heads of the departments in which these men are employed to pass upon. The department heads, I believe, may suspend for a period not exceeding thirty days, when charges must be preferred or reinstatement ordered."

CHURCH INSTALLS
"RADIO SERVICE" TO HEAR PASTOR

Will the church member of the near future sit in his lounging robe and slippers at home instead of "dressing up" and going to church?

This question was asked yesterday in the La Grange Methodist Episcopal church when the pastor, the Rev. Martin J. Magor, announced that a radio service would be broadcast by radio and that all who had receivers and who cared to listen in could do so.

The radio apparatus was installed last week by Milton Stark, formerly in government service, and Robert Magor, the 18 year son of the pastor, who is employed by the Western Electric company. The expense, about $150, was born by a general subscription by the church membership.

"Our first inspiration was to benefit W. J. Gallows, one of the church members, who has been sick for several months," said the Rev. Mr. Magor. "We then thought the benefit might be extended to the entire range of the radio. And that's what we will do."

SECOND LARGEST RESERVOIR IS IN CHIHUAHUA

Lago Toronto, second largest reservoir in the world, guarded by the dam named La Boquilla, is in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico. There 3,000,000 cubic meters of water are piled up behind a wall of masonry sixty feet thick. The hydraulic power of La Boquilla operates the largest electric plant in the republic, although of the five giant turbines only one is in action. It is hoped soon to employ some of this enormous supply of water in irrigating the rich but dry lands of the Concho valley. Lago Toronto is one of the few reservoirs of great volume in existence.—New York Evening Post.

SPAIN 'ESPANA' TO THE SPANISH

Spain, whose people have done so large a share in the naming of new world places, is Spain to the Italians, Espagne to the French, and Espana to the Spanish themselves. The French call this country Etats-Unis, but Versteigle Staaten is the German translation of the same idea. The "New" in the name of our chief metropolis is generally retained in its American form by the French and Germans, but translated by the Spanish and Italians. The former speak of Nueva York. The Mediterranean sea, the Mar Mediterraneo, is "Vareus" translated. The Germans express the same idea in Mittelaeandisches Meer.—Detroit News.

U. S. G. A. HALTS GIFTS BY FIRMS TO ALL AMATEURS

BY JOE DAVIS.

News from New York that the United States Golf association at a meeting of the executive committee had appointed A. D. Locke of Boston as chairman of the amateur status and conduct committee indicates that the national body plans to tighten the strings in this direction.

Incorporated in the report made at the annual meeting in Chicago was the copy of a resolution passed by the executive committee Nov. 16, 1921, which read as follows:

Resolved: That the acceptance of golf balls, clubs, or golf merchandise by an amateur from manufacturers or dealers is in an act detrimental to the best interests of the game. Any player violating this rule will be considered ineligible to compete in the amateur championship of the United States Golf association.

It is a good rule, but just how far it can be enforced is problematical. It will rest largely with the players themselves.

Bob Gardner Chairman.

Robert A. Gardner was appointed chairman of the championship committee, while Wynant D. Vanderpool will act in a similar capacity on the implements and ball committee.

W. A. Alexander and A. E. McCorde, members of the green section of the United States Golf association, are planning to start the local section of the committee at an early date. They will take the case of the Chicago District Golf association, who will be present at a meeting of the C. D. G. A. to be held this month.

To Discuss Purchase of Tractors.

The golf committee of the Cook county forest preserve, of which George W. Miller is chairman, held a meeting at the board rooms to discuss the purchase of tractors. It was decided to give three different tractors a simultaneous test.

Superintendent McInerney of the Palos Park course reported some work had been done on the last eight holes of the course and hoped the full eighteen would be ready for play this summer. Engineer Emmet Flavin was ordered to make a report on a tract of land west of the Desplains river, as the commissioners are desirous of giving the west side golfers a course.

The Cook County Municipal Golf association will hold a meeting at the Traffic club today to consider holding another banquet.

VERRAES-KOPSKY TEAM TO RIDE IN 6 DAY BIKE RACE

Manager "Paddy" Harmon has added another foreign team to the field for the six day bike race starting at the Coliseum next Sunday. The pair consists of Alfons Verraes of Belgium and Joe Kopsky, the Pole. Kopsky has ridden in several times and is popular. He is a great "premium" chaser and stir up a lot of "jams."

Harmon is trying to get Frank Cavanaugh here for the race. Cavanaugh, with his 266 pounds of beef, is still a great rider as well as a capable clown.

John M. Chapman arrived here from New York yesterday to help Harmon with the final details for the race. Chapman is head of the Cycle Racing association, which controls all of the eastern tracks.

Sports Through Edgren's Eyes

CHARLIE WHITE is trying hard to get a match with Benny Leonard. He is one of the most dangerous contenders for the title. Although Leonard knocked him out in the last round when they met a couple of years ago, White had Leonard down and in bad shape earlier in that fight. Perhaps it's a vivid recollection of how Benny looked on the floor that makes Manager Billy Gibson so dumb when White's name is mentioned.

Leonard is a class ahead of White in many ways, but fighting is his title against the best of the challengers. Benny has had several bouts with men less dangerous than White and Tendlar.

Unsteadiness caused Collins' defeat last night. He played daintily at times and drew close to his opponent's score, but missed many easy shots in the final innings.

Francis Appley will meet his brother Edgar for the championship to be held in Benton Harbor on July 4.

Bill Tate, colored heavyweight champion under the management of Kid Howard, will box eight rounds with Battling Owens in Memphis tonight.

Wanted Art, Not Anti.

I had just been married and started housekeeping.

Four girls walked down the street and I said: "Girls, help me out; what vegetable can I have? I feed my poor husband on nothing but peas and corn."

Ethel spoke up: "Artichokes are in season and they are lovely. Get some and I will show you how to cook them."

So, going into the store, I said: "Please, I should like to have some artichokes."

He smiled and said: "Madam, do you mean artichokes?"

Much embarrassed, I said: "Yes, thank you."

An Entangling Alliance.

One day, hurrying through a street car, I found to my dismay that a loop of the braid on my waist had caught on a man's coat button. In my hurry to extricate myself it became more entangled than ever. The passengers were becoming curious at the prolonged stop of the car, and to cap the climax the motorman stepped back and said in a jovial way, "That's right, lady, don't let him get away, stick to him."

As I was about to tear it off, it came loose unexpectedly; I made a wild dash for the steps and almost ran down the street. I had not even seen the face of the man, who no doubt shared my embarrassment on finding himself conspicuously stared at by the crowd.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Fried Parsley.

Tabitha Tickletooth in her famous old book, "The Dinner Question," says: "Parsley is crispied by being taken out of cold water and thrown into boiling fat for half an instant, after you have taken out your fish, which, as the old country housewives say, makes it

As crisp as glass

And green as grass.

But there are other ways of frying it, and Tabitha in her lace apron, cap, and fichu forgets one detail. You should fry your parsley before dropping it into hot fat for the infinitesimal time called "half an instant" of cooking or that time must be prolonged, and you may get burned by the splutter made when water strikes the fat.

You should fry it whether it is to be fried or to be served for what is believed to be an attraction on a beef steak and so forth.

This parsley as crisp as grass is palatable. If you have fried some pork sausage, cant up your pan a bit, and drop into the hot fat remaining a few sprigs of parsley well dried first. You will like the sprigs for themselves or for what they give to the sausages.

Parsley well dried and chopped and mixed with some butter is an edible garnish for a steak, of no small worth. All garnishes should be edible and eaten up.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

OLLIE: THIS EYE WASH is recommended after eyes have become unusually tired or weak: Boric acid, one per cent; sodium borate, one gram; water camphor, sixty drops, and three ounces of distilled water. Apply with eye cup. Another good wash recommended to me by one of the best eye men in the country is boiled water in which a little salt—just enough to make the water taste salty—has been added. The plain water will cause smarting which the salt allays. An eye rest which should be conscientiously practiced by indoor workers is done by going to a window several times a day and looking toward the horizon for a minute or two. The light for reading should come over left shoulder—not full in the face. If you'd like more information on care of eyes send a. a. for booklet which covers the subject thoroughly.

IMPROVED ONE IN GRAIN MARKET CHEERS TRADERS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A change for the better has come over the grain trade and the agricultural interests. There is a more confident feeling among holders, and the disposition to look ahead and forget the past is expected to bring about better conditions all around.

There has been a long decline with an advance of 12c in wheat prices within a week. Moderate advances have also been made in values of coarse grains. Live stock prices are higher, particularly hogs, sheep, and lambs, and the impression prevails that all grains should do better.

E. Ogden Armour and Julius H. Barnes, who have the best facilities for keeping in constant touch with the pulse of the grain trade the world over and are better able to judge of conditions than a very large majority of the grain trade, take this view.

Prices in Argentina have been depressed by foreign selling to enable buyers to secure supplies at low prices and the former have overtaken their market. Foreign exchange has advanced sharply, giving money a better purchasing power and helped all markets abroad.

Europe Buying in Argentina.

Late cables from Buenos Aires report large foreign purchases of wheat by Europe and intimate that farmers are less disposed to sell while exporters continue good buyers. In the United States and Canada futures have advanced and cash premiums eased, as is natural. Exporters took more than 7,000,000 bu of domestic and Canadian wheat last week, to say nothing of their purchases in Argentina.

Prices for wheat are the highest since the middle of last October, and while those who have been holding purchases made months ago at around the present level are getting out, it is natural to expect reactions in prices. However, should advances like last week's, and it would not be surprising to see values weaken a few cents this week. Of late all wheat spots have been taken advantage of by strong interests to absorb the offerings. Those who were recently bullish and short wheat have turned to the long side, and short wheat is settling up readily with the large houses. At the same time it is apparent that there is a large holding among strong interests locally, and at the seaboard, which, should it continue, is expected to have a strengthening influence on values.

A close observer puts it this way: There are hedges in the market here of around 100,000,000 bu of wheat, which represents holdings in the United States, Canada, on ocean passage in Europe, as well as in Argentina. This wheat will have to be bought back some time, and should favorably affect values.

May Wheat Acts Tighter.

May wheat is showing the most strength and has widened its premium over the July. The impression is that Chicago will get very little wheat after this month, unless prices advance to a level where shipments can be made profitably from other markets. Milling demand is expected to increase, as stocks of flour are unusually light. Crop prospects in the southwest are the poorest in years, and from now on the market is to be affected more by crop advances.

Foreign markets have advanced faster than American in the last two weeks, and it is possible that they may not show as much strength for a day or two, which would be natural. The general impression is that the trend of values is irregularly upward. The visible supply is expected to show a small gain for the week.

February wheat in Chicago closed Saturday at $1.15; May, $1.25@1.25; July, $1.05@1.05, showing gains for the week of 6c on May and 2c on July. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Gaining Friends.

The corn market is getting out of the heavy prices Saturday showing an advance of 2c from the low point of last week on the May and 3c on the July, with the futures up 1 1/2 to 2c. Cash corn is a little easier as compared with the May. Corn has been sold to a standstill of late and there are many in the trade who look for the market to do considerably better.

Export buying was not as brisk, but Portugal is understood to be arranging to buy 2,500,000 bu, and with American corn cheaper than Argentine foreigners are expected to be good buyers.

In the face of a record movement of corn in the last few weeks, more than 40,000,000 bu at primary points, and 120,400,000 bu since Nov. 1, compared with 38,500,000 bu last year, there has been little accumulation. In 1914-15 the season's movement to date was 122,870,000 bu or only about 2,000,000 bu more than this year.

Consumption of corn on the farms is heavy, yet stocks are liberal. The Goodrich estimate of farm reserves is 1,691,928,000 bu or 54.9 per cent of the crop. This compares with 1,572,000,000 bu March 1, last year. The big run should be nearing its end, as farmers are discovering that there is more money in Vitrolite.

M. A. J. The $250,000 Vitrolite company 8 per cent bonds are secured by a closed first mortgage on all fixed assets, given a net depreciated value of $631,658, or 1.8 times the debt. Net quick assets as of Oct. 31, 1921, after giving effect to this financing, were $452,359 and net tangible assets after deducting depreciation and all indebtedness except these bonds, $1,089,234. Net earnings for four years and ten months to Oct. 31, 1921, averaged about 3.4 times, and for two years and ten months to date over 4 1/2 times maximum interest charges on these bonds. The bonds are redeemable at 110 up to Feb. 1, 1927; on Aug. 1, 1927 at 105 and thereafter at a premium of 1 per cent for each year of the unexpired term to maturity. A sinking fund is provided to retire $35,000 par value of bonds up to 105 until Feb. 1, 1928, and at redemption price thereafter. The bonds are a suitable investment for the spare funds of a business man.

Fort Worth Stockyards.

The $1,000,000 Fort Worth Stockyards company 6 per cent bonds are being issued to retire $327,000 of 5 1/2% due March 1, 1922. They will be secured by a first mortgage on all the company's property given in appraised value of over 3 times the amount of the issue. They will constitute the company's only funded debt. Net earnings for the last ten years have averaged over 4 1/2 times the interest requirements on this issue for the last five years over 4 1/2 times, and for 1921 over 3 1/2 times such requirements. The bonds are well secured and have a good margin of safety. They are a business man's investment.

There are two sides to the market.

Stocks are large and movement from the country has increased of late, primary receipts showing an increase of 400,000 bu over last year. Farmers are selling now because they do not care to pay taxes on their holdings, as the time for the assessors' returns is near at hand. Consumption is at a good rate without affecting visible supplies.

Those who are bearish think that supplies are too large for the trade to absorb before another crop is raised, while those who take a more optimistic view predict that all the oats will be wanted by the middle of July.

February oats closed Saturday at 34c, May 39 1/2@39 3/4, and July 40c, with September 41c, showing gains of 1/4c for week. Prices for the week follow:

Provisions Are Higher.

The provision market had a better tone last week and advanced prices for hogs and pigmeat were made. Export business improved both in lard, side, hams and bams. The advance brought out liberal selling by a few of the packers who are not especially bullish. The latter packers have done considerable business. Hog supplies continue liberal, yet accumulations of meats at western packing points last month were the smallest for that period in over fifteen years.

FIGHT AGAINST FRUIT FOE WON BY SOUTHERNERS

A few years ago citrus canker threatened to destroy the oranges and other citrus industries of Florida and adjoining states. A vigorous campaign of eradication was begun, during which time all orchards found infected were destroyed. As a result the Florida plant board was able to announce that no infections had been found since August, 1919, and that the disease was to be regarded as eradicated.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Conditions in world rubber market prompt Dunlop Tire and Rubber company to give up plans for resuming production in this country for another year. Reported offer by Henry Ford of $15,000,000 for the company's plant near here is denied.

Women Do Considerable Work on Serbian Farms

A considerable share of labor on Serbian farms is performed by Serbian women, who also weave the home material for their clothes. The women are valued highly for their services, so much so that parents not infrequently are unwilling to let their daughters marry. Hence, in Serbia wives are often older than their husbands.

RODIN STATUE OF CLEMENCEAU TOO TRUE TO LIFE

PARIS.—[United Press.]—When Georges Clemenceau attended the unveiling of a statue of himself in his native Vendee visitors to the Luxembourg museum smiled at another statue which is there because the latter, who was the same Clemenceau, refused to buy it.

Rodin was the sculptor. When the statue was finished the artist refused to look at it. He was horrified.

"That isn't my head," he cried.

"Precisely," retorted Rodin. "For features are absolutely oriental."

Explaining to artist friends later, Rodin said: "When I make a head, I try to put into it the marked character of a man. In Clemenceau's case that characteristic is Tartar. Born in France, in Brittany, Clemenceau is a pure Kalmuck Tartar. I can not help it. What he didn't like about the statue is that it is so much like him."

General Mortgage 5 1/2% Gold Bonds, Series B

Dated January 1, 1922

Due January 1, 1932

These Bonds are not redeemable by the Company before maturity.

Interest payable January 1 and July 1 in New York City.

Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, registrable as to principal. Fully registered Bonds in denominations of $1,000 and authorized multiples thereof. Coupon and registered Bonds interchangeable.

The issuance of these Bonds has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, Trustee

Louis W. Hill, Esq., Chairman of the Great Northern Railway Company, has summarized as follows his letter to us describing this issue:

The total mileage covered (directly or collaterally) by the General Mortgage is 7,675 miles, constituting approximately 98% of the total mileage of the Great Northern system. The Company's outstanding mortgage debt is at the rate of approximately $37,500 per mile, including the present issue. As a result of the conversion of Northern Pacific Great Northern joint bonds into Great Northern Railway Company General Mortgage Bonds, stock representing approximately one-half of the ownership of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company is pledged, free from prior lien, under the General Mortgage. Bonds of a total of $115,000,000 have been issued against the ownership of such stock, which amount, deducted from the total bond debt, would leave a balance of debt outstanding at the rate of approximately $22,500 per mile of road. No more underlying mortgage bonds may be issued.

The Company's gross operating revenues, income, charges and surplus for ten years have been as follows:

Year Ended June 30	Gross Operating Revenues	Income Available for Charges	Charges	Surplus
1912	$66,197,819	$33,175,038	$11,520,782	$21,654,256

1921*	101,317,204	40,204,124	17,517,300	22,686,824

*Year ended Dec. 31. U. S. R. R. Administration. 30, S. R. R. Administration 2 months; guaranty period 6 months; corporate period 1 month.

In the above ten years, income available for charges averaged about 2 1/2 times the amount required.

The income account as stated above includes this Company's cash dividend income from its holdings of Burlington stock as well as interest payments by it on obligations issued in connection with the acquisition of the Burlington stock. The Great Northern's proportion of the Burlington's surplus income for ten years prior to July 1, 1921, when the Great Northern-Northern Pacific joint 4% bonds matured, averaged approximately $10,461,911 annually, but of this amount the Great Northern received in cash dividends (with the exception of an extra dividend in 1917) the sum of only $4,304,540 annually, sufficient to cover its share of the annual interest on such joint bonds. For the six months ended December 31, 1921, cash dividends received by the Great Northern on its Burlington stock were more than sufficient to cover interest for that period on its 7% General Mortgage Bonds issued in conversion of joint bonds.

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED FOR SUBSCRIPTION, SUBJECT TO ISSUE AS PLANNED, AT 96 1/2% AND INTEREST, TO YIELD APPROXIMATELY 5.75 PER CENT.

Subscription books will be opened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., at 10 o'clock A. M., Monday, February 6, 1922. The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to award a smaller amount than applied for. The amount due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. in New York funds, the date of payment to be specified in the notices of allotment, against delivery of temporary Bonds exchangeable for definitive Bonds when prepared.

The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company

To the Holders of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company First and Refunding 5% Bonds and Certificates of Deposit in Respect Thereof:

The Committee, of which Mr. James H. Perkins is Chairman, has expressed the opinion that the Plan of Reorganization agreed upon by this Committee with the Western Pacific is satisfactory and has stated that it is the purpose of the Committee to obtain better terms by arrangement with their connecting lines, and that in the event of their being unable to obtain terms deemed by that Committee more favorable than those under the Western Pacific Plan, bonds will be returned to depositors.

To this the Committee has to say:

(1) This Committee has recommended a definite and constructive Plan. It is the only plan announced. It involves the provision by the Western Pacific of $10,000,000 for Denver & Rio Grande reorganization, and the turning over to the Reorganized Company of all unencumbered assets of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company, for all of which there will be issued only common stock, ranking after the new securities offered for your bonds.

(2) The Perkins Committee offers no plan and promises no plan. It hopes to obtain a proposal from one or more connecting lines. The connecting line to which it in reality refers is unquestionably the Missouri Pacific. Interests connected with this line have been aware for more than two years that this Committee has been endeavoring to arrange a plan. They have been given every opportunity to submit a proposal to the Committee and have failed to do so.

(3) If these interests have any intention of submitting a proposal they have had ample time to formulate it and can submit it promptly. Consequently, if the announcement of the Perkins Committee is not followed up promptly by a definite plan, it will be apparent that the purpose of its announcement is only to prevent the deposit of bonds under the Plan within the time limited thereby (i. e., prior to March 1 next) and thus cause the Plan to fail.

(4) If the Plan of this Committee should fail, the Perkins Committee may have a less favorable plan to offer, or it may have no plan at all. In the latter case the Refunding Bonds would be forced to an independent reorganization of the property which would necessitate their taking of themselves at least the $10,000,000 which the Western Pacific now offers.

(5) Such independent reorganization would involve either an assessment of the bondholders of probably at least 25% or the acceptance of new securities much less desirable than those offered under the Plan of this Committee.

(6) The Perkins Committee has arranged to lead bondholders $25 per bond (the equivalent of the February coupon) up on the security of their bonds. Under the offer of the Western Pacific the February coupon is purchased by it, and, whether the Plan fail or succeed, the bondholder has no liability for repayment. The like offer is made, in respect of the August next coupon, if the Plan is then operative. Coupons so purchased are subordinated to the principal and future interest of the Refunding Bonds.

Finally: The Perkins Committee offers nothing but a possibility. We offer a concrete, complete and constructive plan. If not accepted by the assent of the requisite number of bonds in the short time limited—prior to March 1st next—the offer may have to be withdrawn. In such case the bondholders may be left at the mercy of such offer as "one or more connecting lines" may be willing to make, or perhaps be driven to the need of an independent reorganization.

This Committee again recommends holders of Refunding Bonds and holders of Certificates of Deposit representing the same to assent promptly to the Plan of Reorganization proposed by the Committee.

1921 WORST YEAR FOR MORRIS & CO., REPORT SHOWS

BY O. A. MATHER.

The annual report of Morris & Co. confirms what already is known regarding the poor conditions in the packing house industries last year. For the fiscal year ended Oct. 29, 1921, the statement shows an operating loss of $5,965,506, compared with a net profit of $4,270,597 in the preceding year. After fixed charges, administrative expense and payment of $525,000 in dividends, there was a deficit for 1921 of $11,725,541, compared with a deficit of $2,555,710 in 1920. The surplus now stands at $1,299,255, compared with $13,271,796 at the close of the 1920 period.

The year just closed has probably been the worst year in the history of both the live stock and packing businesses. Nelson Morris, chairman of the board, states: "The tremendous drop in live stock and wholesale meat prices to below pre-war levels has made it impossible to operate except at a loss, a large part of which, of course, was caused by readjusting inventory values to a new basis."

Conditions Already Better. "Prospects for the coming year are better. We have already received action in prices, and our inventory today is worth considerably more than at the close of our fiscal year. Every effort is being made to get expenses in line. Since the close of the fiscal year a new wage scale with an annual increase of $1,500,000 has been effected. Unfortunately our labor rate is still higher than for the local packers in the smaller points, and a further reduction may be necessary."

Office and administration expenses have been greatly reduced. We are handicapped by higher freight rates, but it is hoped some reduction will be ordered by the interstate commerce commission during the year. In a business in which the margin is as small as ours these savings are of great importance. We are in excellent financial position. The volume of sales is quite satisfactory, compared with previous years. As quick assets amount to over $19,000,000, the ratio is about five to one, which under present day conditions is very satisfactory."

Story of Balance Sheet. The balance sheet shows inventories decreased $9,039,756; investments, $4,642,341; accounts receivable, $10,225,277; plant, etc., $14,531, and total assets, $25,457,782. The funded debt decreased $24,000; bills payable, $7,430,643; acceptance drafts against export shipments, $4,570,000, and accounts payable and reserve for losses, $1,310,424. Reserve for depreciation increased $159,257. Interest charges, taxes, and insurance increased $12,125, but administrative expense decreased $1,025,412, making a saving in expenditures of $842,273.

No dividends were paid on the $30,000,000 common stock and the dividends of $125,000 on the $10,000,000 preferred stock covers only three quarters, although the issue is entitled to 7 per cent annually. The preferred issue and $27,000,000 of the common stock were distributed as a stock dividend in the latter part of 1920.

Hog Prices Up in January, Fresh Pork Unchanged. The wholesale price of fresh pork remained practically unchanged during January, despite the fact that the cost of live hogs increased approximately $5 per hundred, according to statistics made public last night by the Institute of Meat Packing. That the packers expect still lower prices for their product is indicated by the statement they are not buying hogs for storage, but are content to dispose of their purchases in the form of fresh pork. Good trade with European countries is reported. The January market for cattle showed a lower trend because cattle receipts and beef shipments were heavier than in the latter part of December.

Canada, 13th in Maritime Nations in 1919, Now 8th. In 1919 Canada was only thirteenth among maritime nations. Since then she has risen to eighth place, with nearly 9,000 vessels. Many new steamship companies have been organized since the war started and the Canadian government's own fleet now numbers sixty-three vessels.

NEWS OF THE DAY THROUGH THE EYE OF THE CAMERA

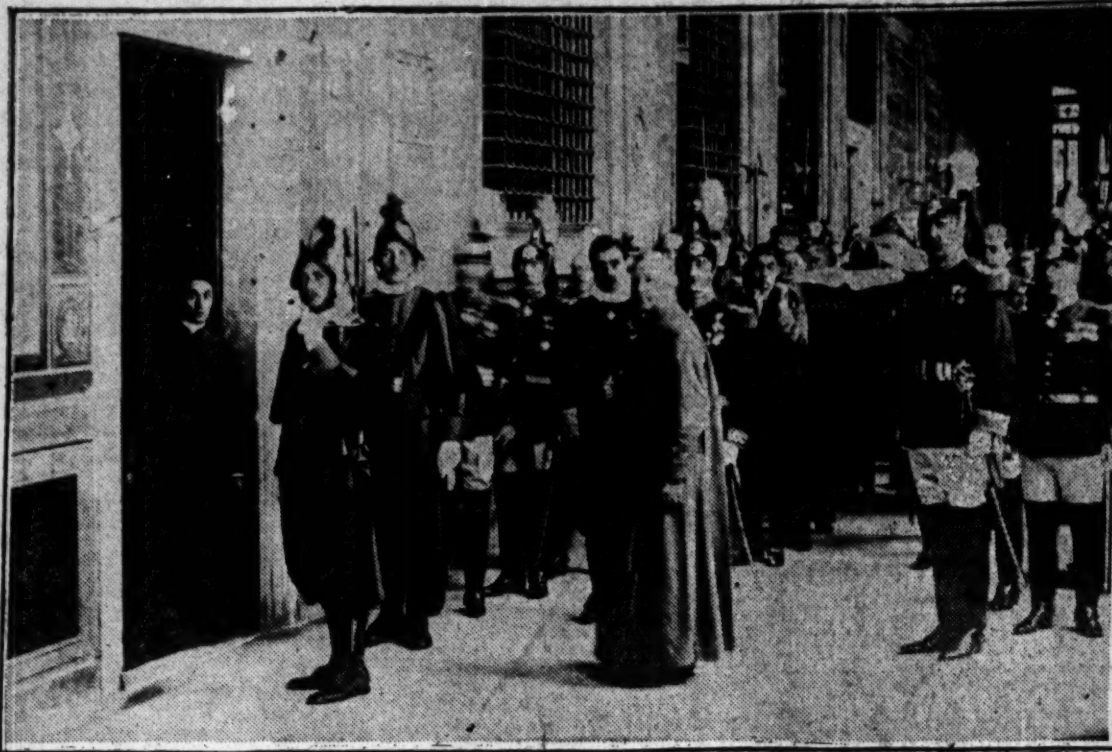

SHOWGIRL NOW DUCHESS. Former May Ethridge, whose husband, Lord Fitzgerald, is now Duke of Leinster, as a result of the death of his brother.

JAP REGENT TO WED. Latest portrait of Crown Prince Hirohito of Japan, whose engagement to Princess Nagako Kuni has just been announced.

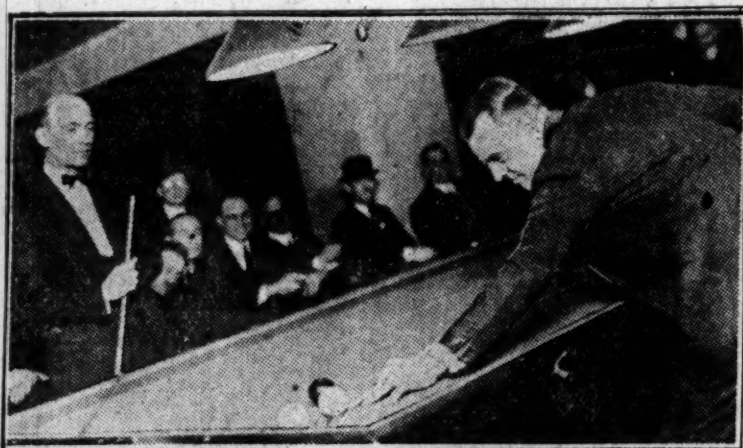

FUTURE EMPRESS. Princess Nagako Kuni, daughter of Prince of Shimazu, head of one of the most powerful clans in Nippon.

[Photo copyright: Pacific & Atlantic Photos.] The papal choir carrying the body of the late pope from the throne room in the Vatican to St. Peter's cathedral, where it lay in state. Swiss guards, Palatine guards, and noble guards escorted the body.

[Photo copyright: Pacific & Atlantic Photos.] The body of the late Pope Benedict lying in state in St. Peter's cathedral. Two hundred thousand persons, from all walks of life, passed the body.

[Pacific and Atlantic photo.] WANTS HIS CROWN BACK. Willie Hoppe, former champion 18.2 billiard player of the world, is again playing publicly, for the first time since losing his title. He will play the man who vanquished him, Jake Schaefer, in March, and hopes to regain the crown.

[J. D. Toloff photo.] COLLEGE BEAUTY. Miss Janet Angell of Litchfield, Miss., senior in Northwestern university school of speech, is another candidate in the beauty contest conducted by the Syllabus. The contest will be concluded and winners announced in a few weeks.

[J. D. Toloff photo.] PRETTIEST CO-ED? Miss Madeline Gelder, 836 Galt avenue, senior at the school of speech, Northwestern university, who is entered in the annual contest conducted by the Syllabus, the college year book, to determine the most beautiful girl student.

[Wide World photo.] GIRLS AID POOR IN PARIS. The condition of hundreds of sufferers in the late war is growing worse, instead of improving, and girl students have organized the "Friends of France" society to distribute potatoes, the "makings" of beef stew, to the neediest cases.

[Pacific and Atlantic photo.] CROONS REAL BABY SONGS NOW. A little over a year ago Broadway bald pates were being dazzled by Rosie Quinn and her "baby" songs at the Century roof garden show. Now, as the wife of Lewis Burgess, heir to Omaha millions, she does all her singing for wee Ward Burgess, born last December.

[Pacific and Atlantic photo.] URNS NEWSIE TO EAT. Baron von Dankleman, son of old German family, takes only job available to earn a living.

TANK HALTS KENTUCKY STRIKERS. Two men were shot and a score of others were beaten in clashes between state troops and striking rolling mill workers in Newport, Ky., yesterday and Saturday. This tank, with armed soldiers in it, was photographed in Brighton street, the center of the riot zone. Charges that the state troops have been guilty of "reckless and indiscriminate shooting" and "intimidation of the people" have been made by County Judge W. C. Buten of Newport to Gov. Morrow of Kentucky.
